Even If Grant Not Ready

Start Planning Civic Centre Victoria Urged

Planning for a civic centre or auditorium should start immediately even if the capital city grant is not available for the purpose this year, architect Roderick D. Clack said last night.

He told members of the Victoria Chapter of the Society of Residential Appraisers that it would take at least a year of careful planning before construction could start.

Meanwhile, city business man Elmer McEwen last night extended an invitation to all MLAs, the mayor, aldermen and councillors of Greater Victoria to attend a special meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at McEwen's Restaurant to discuss the civic auditorium project.

Mr. Clack urged that now is the time "we must start making concrete plans."

A civic auditorium and a convention centre are "not quite the same," he explained. "A convention centre is a centre that has a large hall for meetings and assemblies, meeting rooms, committee rooms, catering facilities, dining rooms and rooms for social functions," he said.

"A civic auditorium is primarily for the staging of some sort of performance. It needs stage facilities for religious meetings, singers, plays and dramatic presentations."

A civic centre combines all of these things and would mean a number of buildings, with more or less the same objective, which would be a point of civic pride, he said.

"As architects, we are very conscious of the fact Victoria is not a very beautiful city. That may come as a blow to our pride," he said. "We have magnificent surroundings, terrific views, but Douglas street

Science Hopeful

Last Days Sighted For Chronic Pain

TORONTO (CP)—Medical men meeting here said Monday research has changed their concept of the nature of pain and of sex determination.

At a panel discussion at the joint British and Canadian medical associations convention, Prof. Graham Weddell of Oxford, England, said Science may eventually end chronic pain.

Dr. Frank Turnbull of Vancouver said the new medical approach to pain resulted from research by Prof. Weddell.

He said neurologists now believe pain is caused by a stimulant acting on the nerve, rather than, as previously held, by the nerve itself.

This means pain orginates in the body through a diversity of causes and not for a "specific or rigid" reason, Prof. Weddell added. He said he believes "some simple chemical" may eventually be discovered to relieve chronic pain but not the disease, by removing the environmental causes.

Dr. L. R. Broster of London's Charing Cross Hospital said Canada leads in the field of research into intersexuality.

A technique devised by Dr. Murray Barr of the University of Western Ontario shows the preponderant sex of an individual through the sex chromosomes present in his or her tissue cells.

Skin samples are used to determine sex in young individuals with mixed male and female glands. Subsequent conditioning had given the patients a happy, healthy life, although they were unable to bear children.

Research on intersexuality is continuing in Britain and Canada, Mr. Broster said. Ultimately, he added, it may be possible to test expectant mothers to determine whether they are carrying normal children.

Prof. J. W. Crofton of Edinburgh said that with antibiotics, combined ith surgery, nobody need die from pulmonary tuberculosis.

Newfoundland Policy

'Fly Union Jack —No Other Flag'

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)—Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland told the Atlantic Association of Broadcasters Monday night Newfoundland has not entered confederation to fly any flag but the Union Jack.

Newfoundlanders had not joined Canada to become second-class citizens. "Rather than come to that we'll show the other Maritime Provinces how to get out of confederation."

Premier Smallwood was introduced by Premier Hugh Fleming of New Brunswick and thanked by Premier Henry Hicks of Nova Scotia. All smiled when the Newfoundland leader said that as far as confederation is concerned Canada is still on trial.

Newfoundland hadn't yet made up its mind and no matter how many national flags developed in Ottawa "it will be a long day indeed before we abandon the Union Jack."

Can't Win Prize

Disqualified for entry into The Daily Colonist fishing derby is the 53-pound spring salmon left behind in Esquimalt drydock after the water was pumped out yesterday. Holding the huge salmon is VMD diver Geoffrey Pitt, 275 Superior, and Wren Agnes Gemmell of Winnipeg. It was speared by Indian dock worker Frank George.

Usually Know Better

Confused Salmon Caught in Drydock

Seven confused spring salmon, including a 53-pound whopper, wondered who pulled the plug and left them high and dry in the basin of Esquimalt drydock yesterday.

The fish, who usually know better than to remain in the basin at low tide, were caught on the wrong side of the gates after the merchant ship Vassa was manoeuvred into the dock and the water pumped out.

Vassa's entry was at the lowest tide ever attempted to bring a ship into the drydock, and was considered "on the risky side" by dock officials.

It marked the first time in four years that fish of any size were left behind by the sea. Smaller fish trapped in the dock can clog outlets—like a school of anchovies did in 1951.

Frank George, a dockyard worker, caught the 53-pounder with a barbed spear when the receding water reached wading level.

The big "catch" brought a number of curious spectators to the side of the dock. But their hopes of taking home a big one, too, were dashed when they were warned that public fishing in the drydock is illegal.

Smallest of seven captured salmon was 23 pounds.

'Behaviour Like 1945'

Our Troops 'Terrorizing' Germany, Paper Claims

Story Alleges Rape, Beatings, Damages

DUESSELDORF, Germany (CP)—The Duesseldorf newspaper Der Mittag says Canadian soldiers are terrorizing German civilians in the Paderborn area "as though this were 1945" and the area "lay east of the Elbe (Russian territory)."

Der Mittag says there has scarcely been a day in the last few weeks in which Canadian soldiers at Sennelager training camp had not "come into public attention in an annoying way."

It says "girls are attacked and raped, civilians are beaten up, inns are flattened . . .

"Even if it be granted that in a group of soldiers of 5,000 men who lack suitable outlets for their spirit of enterprise there can easily be a portion of criminality and rowdyism, it does seem that these sons from the sea of the great Aurons mistake their mission on the old continent."

SIGNS OF FRIENDSHIP

This is unfortunate, the paper says, for Germans had so far had a solid portion of good will for the Canadians. Whole generations of students were under the firm impression that all "better types" from overseas came preferably from the area of the St. Lawrence.

But it says one in whom this belief was thoroughly destroyed was the innkeeper "at whose head our Canadian guests threw a full bottle of spirits during the beer hall fight in Augustdorf last Thursday night."

"When he looks at the bump on his temple today he may fairly have his own ideas about Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's hurry about the Paris treaties."

Der Mittag adds that a few weeks ago this would have been "occupation damage," but "today such things, too, count among the hopeful signs of an even-tightening friendship" binding West Germany to the free world.

At Ottawa an army spokesman said headquarters have asked the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade in Germany for information on the reported brawl.

He said some German newspapers exaggerate relatively minor incidents, such as barroom fights, accidents involving army vehicles and the like. Other papers were more objective. It was not known where the newspaper Der Mittag stood.

BIELEFELD, Germany (CP)—Details of brawling and individual attacks on civilians by Canadian troops in the Sennelager area near here are to be sent to the Canadian Parliament, it was announced Monday night.

The regional women's headquarters of the Social Democratic party has built up a dossier which will be forwarded through the party federal executive. The Social Democrats are the main opposition party.

Junta Planned

Revolt Curbs Peron Might

BUENOS AIRES (CP)—Life appeared to be returning to normal in the Argentine capital Monday—under strict control of the armed forces. But there were reports that President Juan Peron's power was being curbed in the wake of Thursday's revolt.

Argentine refugees in Montevideo, Uruguay, said they had learned from Buenos Aires sources by telephone that the army is preparing to establish a three-man junta, including Peron, to rule Argentina. The two other members would be Maj.-Gen. Franklin Lucero, the army minister, and Rear-Admiral Alberto Teisaire, the vice-president.

The Argentine refugees said negotiations among the prospective members of the junta are in progress on how to settle the Peron government's controversy with the Roman Catholic church.

Peron was excommunicated by the Vatican last Thursday shortly before the navy-air force revolt broke out with bombing attacks on government house here.

For the first time since Eva Peron, the president's late wife, died July 26, 1952, radio stations abstained Monday from broadcasting the official "memorial" news bulletin which went on the air regularly at 8.25 p.m.—"The hour Eva Peron entered immortality."

Omission of her name from the brief news broadcast was noticed in practically every home of the country. The omission strengthened the widespread impression that new minds are at work on the Argentine political scene.

Argentine newspapers have not yet carried the news of Peron's excommunication.

V. M. MOLOTOV

What's Molotov's Mood?

World Diplomats Scan Poker Face

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The spotlights of an expectant world have swung onto the poker face of one of the four men who sat down behind closely guarded doors to produce a working formula for the meeting of the chiefs of state July 17 in Geneva.

He is Vyacheslav Mikhailovich Molotov, Russia's top diplomat, political negotiator, and foreign minister serving his third boss, Nikita Khrushchev, having survived many a political storm.

Others at the table were United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay.

The discussion of the proposed meeting of chiefs of state, a mere four weeks away, took place last night in a private dining room in a San Francisco hotel. After entering the hotel separately, the four returned to the steps and posed for pictures.

Pre-meeting announcements said that no communique would be issued on last night's meeting.

Molotov is the only one of the four foreign ministers to return to the same historic Nob Hill which 10 years ago was an international beehive of peace-builders.

There was a faint smile on his face when he walked briskly into the Fairmont Hotel Sunday night to visit Eelco Van Kleffens, president of the UN General Assembly.

After attending the formal dinner given by Eduardo Zuleta-Angel of Colombia, Molotov withdrew to his own suburban headquarters to evaluate his first impressions.

The experienced eyes of international diplomats failed to penetrate beneath the cordiality displayed by the Russian and his companions, and most observers have preferred to wait and see.

Socred Wins In Camrose

Friends, Rivals Mark UN Birthday

Dulles Shakes with Molotov as Crowd Cheers

By JAMES D. WHITE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Old friends — and old rivals — gathered under the glare of the spotlights Monday with 10 years of history on their hands.

As the 10th anniversary session of the United Nations opened here, the great stage of the gilt-and-red plush opera house suddenly thronged with half a hundred veterans of the organizing session in the same spot as 10 years ago.

State Secretary Dulles arrived early, with Harold Stassen, President Eisenhower's special secretary for peace charged with working on disarmament.

They cordially greeted Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippines chief delegate, and slapped him on the back.

Romulo slapped them right back, and then turned to greet Paul Henri Spaak of Belgium, and Charles Malik of Lebanon.

The stage was already crowded with veterans of the first session when the Russians arrived with the largest contingent of all.

HANDSHAKE COAXED

Molotov mounted the stage from the orchestra and chatted with delegates from the smaller countries, shaking hands with each.

Gradually he worked his way towards Dulles, finally reaching him just behind the speakers' rostrum.

They chatted amiably enough, but Dulles kept his hands behind him, his back toward the audience. Photographer and newsreel men moved toward them. For two minutes they waited as the two statesmen talked. Finally somebody yelled "shake hands." Dulles unlocked his hands behind his back and pumped Molotov's. The audience broke into applause.

As President Eisenhower spoke Molotov sat impassively without translation headphones. Russian newspaper men later said he had had the speech translated beforehand.

He joined heartily in the applause when the president ended.

Vita Dazed After Freak Tornado

Province 'Giving Thought' to Action

No Church, No Hospital, No Homes, No Pub—No Help

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VITA, Man. (CP) — This town had no where to turn Monday.

No church in which to pray for guidance. No hospital to soothe the pain. No beer parlor to drown the sorrow. Few homes to shelter the homeless.

Vita lay dazed, the nightmare of Sunday's tornado still numbing the senses.

Officialdom had yet to act. From Premier D. L. Campbell came word the provincial government was "giving thought" to a program of action.

The Red Cross said it was standing by for orders. So did civil defence. Three Salvation Army officers moved into this southeastern Manitoba town to offer what help they could.

Repair crews worked round the clock threading a line of communication to this Ukrainian settlement, 50 miles southeast of Winnipeg.

Volunteers and RCMP poked among the ruins seeking possible victims. It was known at least 30 persons were injured, some severly, during the two minutes of hell. Six or more homes were either burned to the ground or smashed. The hospital, school, drug store, bakery, lumber yard, restaurant and funeral parlor were shattered.

The general store was a smouldering pile of embers. There was no electricity.

Those of the 400 residents still in the town rummaged through the debris for any belongings they might salvage.

And Monday, emotions that were bottled up in terror began to break through the surface.

Mrs. Mary Probizamske wept as she looked at what was left of her home; only the chimney stood above the pile of debris.

She and her son were trapped in the house when the tornado struck.

"I heard a rumble, glass flew. I just grabbed my little boy and ran to the basement," she said. John Bodnarchuk cowered behind a refrigerator in his restaurant as jagged pieces of glass and timbers flew in the windows. Later he found on the floor a felt boot blown in from Jack Pidlubney's general store, three doors away. Pidlubney's store was just a heap of glowing embers in the foundation.

Premier Campbell said the province "naturally" was ready to give any first aid or any assistance that it may offer. A cabinet decision, however, was difficult as seven of the 10 ministers were out of town on government business or on by-election campaigns.

Winnipeg meteorologists blamed a band of thunderstorms for the tornado, a rarity in Canada. A marked cold front moved into warm, stagnant air and the tornado formed on the division line of the warm and cool air.

Vita residents said it was the second tornado to hit the community in five years. In 1950 a funnel-shaped cloud bore down on the town's outskirts, ripping the roof off a lumber yard office.

Ottawa Urged To Clear Out Butter Stocks

By R. O. MARRION

The president of the National Dairy Council of Canada advocated yesterday the distribution of government-held surplus butter at a price Canadians are willing to pay.

Speaking to the Gyro Club of Victoria, Grant M. Carlyle of Calgary said he agreed on this point with some of the critics of the dairy industry.

Earlier in his address he said almost everyone knew something about the dairy business and was inclined to be critical.

"We in the dairy business think our critics are rather one-sided and on the wrong side of the fence," he said. "However, I have to admit that there are lots of critics with whom I, personally, agree."

The federal government, Mr. Carlyle said, was not willing to sell butter at anything less than it paid under its price-support program — approximately 60 cents a pound.

"I think it is a serious thing to have held butter off the market," he said. "It wouldn't have been necessary to lower the price to 40 cents to consume the 5-per-cent surplus."

The government, he said, was not willing to admit that it took a loss on storing the butter.

Agriculture Minister James Gardiner had hoped dairymen would run into a bad year and the surplus would disappear, but "that hasn't happened," he said. Instead, less butter and more margarine was being eaten.

'ADMIT THE LOSS'

"It sems to me a more realistic policy would be to admit there is a loss on the storing of butter and to sell it to Canadians at a price they are willing to pay," Mr. Carlyle said.

The dairy industry means more to Canada than most people realize, he said. Annual milk production is 16,800,000,000 pounds, or 1,100 pounds per capita, of which 1,050 pounds is consumed in some dairy-product form and 50 pounds is surplus, and is kept in the form of butter.

A sixth of the population of Canada, he said, is concerned directly or indirectly in the production of dairy foods.

"One would think," Mr. Carlyle said, "that we shouldn't be encountering any difficulties in a business of that size."

The business, he added, had shown remarkable progress in efficiency, but the economics of the industry had been "thrown out of gear" by government control measures during the war and since.

He also mentioned the impact on the dairy market of vegetable oils at 10 cents a pound, converted into margarine at 25 cents a pound, competing with butter at a world market price of 40 cents a pound.

NEED FOR FATS

The impact would have been worse, he said, except that the world's population was growing and with it, the need for all fats. However, Canadian farmers could not produce butterfat for the price at which vegetable oils are available.

Despite these facts, Mr. Carlyle said, dairymen are not depressed about the future. Because of the size of the industry, the government "cannot see it remain in a permanently depressed condition.

"Large agricultural areas of Canada," he said, "would simply become depopulated if dairy farming were not supported."

Would Deal with Public

Support Sought By Technicians

Dental technicians in B.C. have begun a provincial-wide drive for support of legislation which will permit them to deal directly with the public for denture repairs.

The Dental Technician Society of B.C. will seek 150,000 signatures on a petition supporting a bill it will present to the provincial legislature next spring.

At present dental technicians can work only for dentists. There are reports, however, of "bootleg" dentures being made by some technicians.

LOCAL LEADS DRIVE

The drive for signatures is led by Local 511 (AFL-TLC) of the technicians' union.

Technicians want the right to repair dentures for wearers where no impressions are needed or work in the mouth is required.

The proposed bill would establish technicians under a regulating board as a profession, which would allow them to go into partnership with dentists or serve the public directly for limited work.

A Dental Technicians Act was introduced in the legislature this year but withdrawn by Health Minister Eric Martin when disagreement arose among technicians themselves.

Back from Siberia

Freed Prisoners Disclose Horrors

VIENNA (UP) — Austrians returning from long imprisonment in Russia said Monday that at least six Americans and eight Britons are still held in Soviet camps under conditions which have driven many prisoners mad.

The Austrians brought with them from Siberian and other slave labor centres names and fragmentary descriptions of the Americans and Britons and many other foreign captives of the Russians.

Rioting, sexual brutality and the fear of sudden death have so permeated these camps, they said, that insanity has become commonplace.

The names and addresses of the Americans, as listed by the returned prisoners, left the identities of many unclear.

The returned prisoners also told of the death of an American named Clifford Costa Brown. Their description of him bore a strong resemblance to that of a Charles Brown Clifford, whose imprisonment in Siberia was first reported by returning Austrians in October, 1954.

The returned Austrians said they knew of five and possibly eight Britons still held by the Russians. And they claimed that Fumitaka Konoye, son of the one-time Japanese premier Prince Konoye, is still alive in Siberia after 10 years' imprisonment. He is held, they said, along with some 400 other Japanese officers and men.

The returned prisoners said the greatest fear of the men in the Soviet camps and prisons is that they have been given up for dead.

Approximately 40 sail and power craft from RVYC, Capital City Yacht Club and Maple Bay Yacht Club joined the cruise, which centred around Sidney Spit lagoon.

Commodore F. W. Nicolls and vice-commodore J. M. Green of RVYC were in command of the "floating picnic." Fleet captain J. H. B. Gann officiated for informal races of frostbite dinghies Sunday afternoon. Winners were Ted Ashe and his wife Margaret.

A salmon barbecue Saturday evening was the highlight of the cruise.

Garden Notes

Gay Creatures Outshine Oldies

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In the course of my gardening activities, I run into many fine gardeners who hold firmly to the opinion that the old-fashioned flowers have more real beauty and charm than the modern hybrid products of the plant breeder's science.

This may be true in some instances, but I cannot imagine the most confirmed purists preferring the old lupins to the gay creatures created so patiently by the late George Russell.

Thanks to the work of this old jobbing gardener, the Russell lupin has taken its place as a prime favorite in the perennial border.

GALA CLOTHES

The joy of the Russell lupin lies in its earliness. It is up and fully dressed in its gala clothes while most of its perennial comrades are scarcely out of bed. It has all the full-bodied beauty of a mid-summer flower, yet it blooms while the late tulips and shrubs are still singing songs of spring.

The plant is extraordinarily easy-going and co-operative. Providing that the soil is not waterlogged nor too strong in lime, the lupin is almost a foolproof plant, flourishing in nearly all kinds of situation, prone to no maladies, and requiring no crutches to maintain an upright carriage.

Yet in very many cases lupins are grossly misused, and perhaps the most common error lies in faulty siting. Being so early of habit, they ought always to be planted behind certain plants which will cover up for them after their early flowering is over, yet not so tall as to conceal the second spike of bloom later in the year.

For if the first spike is cut down after the flowers are spent, most plants will bloom again. Good plants for siting in front of the Russell lupins are the perennial phloxes, dwarf dahlias, the Ligtu alstroemerias or Peruvian lilies, and day lilies.

While I have grown them in all sorts of soil, I find they have a distinct preference for a fibrous loam with a lot of old, rotted turf in it, plus a good dash of rather coarse sand.

While they are not lime-haters to the same extent as the rhododendrons and azaleas, they get along best if lime is never applied artificially. This distaste for lime is very exceptional in flowers with pea-shaped blooms.

Another pet aversion of the Russell lupin is for animal manure, which appears to be almost a poison to them. It is best never to feed them at all, except, perhaps, with an occasional dash of bonemeal. Good drainage is absolutely essential, and deep digging is a must in the preparation of their home, for the long tap roots go away down.

DROOP BADLY

Another common fault in lupin culture is to assign them to a station which is too hot and dry, as they tend to droop badly in hot weather and in dry soil.

Just about an ideal situation is a spot where they will bask in morning and late afternoon sun, but with a bit of shade through the middle of the day. Fortunately, this is a preference shared by their companions, the day lilies, phloxes, and Peruvial lilies.

Seeds may be sown now in a shady seed bed. By fall the plants will be big enough to move into their permanent quarters in the perennial border.

Shift System Continues

Class Accommodation Arrangements Detailed

Accommodation problems will make it necessary to continue a shift system at several Greater Victoria schools next year, John Gough, municipal inspector of schools, told board trustees last night.

Presenting an organization program for the next school year, he said every effort will be made to ensure that no pupil is subjected to the shift system for a second successive year.

He suggested that it may be necessary in future to convert Lampson street school to a junior high school.

The board approved the name Richmond elementary school, for a four-class school to be built near Richmond road and Forrester street, south of Lansdowne junior high school.

MOVE AS UNITS

Mr. Gough said that where new schools or additions to schools will be available about January, 1956, classes will be established at schools to be relieved by the extra accommodation.

He said the classes could be moved as a complete unit, with teacher, and avoid disruption.

Mr. Gough's report, compiled with the assistance of school board employees and school principals concerned, was approved by the board as follows:

McKenzie avenue-Glanford — Enrollment at McKenzie avenue will consist of nine classes of McKenzie avenue and four classes of Glanford children, the latter to include pupils in grades one to six.

FOUR CLASSES

Shift system will involve at least four McKenzie classes and two Glanford classes in grades one to three. It will be in effect until early 1956, when Glanford school will be ready.

Willows-Oak Bay elementary-Monterey avenue—In anticipation of the completion of a 10-room addition to Willows about January, 1956, and the eventual closure of Oak Bay elementary school, possibly in June, 1956:

(a) Four classes of Willows pupils will be taught at Oak Bay elementary until they can be transferred;

(b) Four classes of other pupils will finish the 1955-56 school year at Oak Bay before transferring to other schools;

(c) Eleven pupils in grade 2 at Oak Bay will attend Monterey in September;

(d) Nine pupils in grades 4, 5 and 6 will attend Margaret Jenkins in September.

Margaret Jenkins and Bank street—To improve accommodation at Bank street and to develop this to a grade 1 and 2 school in September, 1956, boundaries will be modified so that 19 pupils in grades 1, 2 and 3 residing between Oak Bay avenue and Brighton will attend Margaret Jenkins in September.

Craigflower—Two classes will be on shift system next year until relieved by Marigold.

Oaklands—Pending completion of a 10-room addition, two to four classes will be on shift system.

Doncaster—Six classes will be subjected to part-time education until eight additional classrooms are completed early next year.

Lampson street and Esquimalt High—Only one grade eight class can be enrolled at Esquimalt High in September because of accommodation difficulties. Two other groups of this level will be taught at Lampson street.

ENTER SYSTEM

Macaulay-Lampson street — About 150 children of army personnel, in grades one to eight, who previously attended John Stubbs school will enter the Greater Victoria school system.

"Service pupils" and "civilian pupils" who will eventually attend Macaulay school will be accommodated at Lampson street until the new school is ready for occupancy about October or November.

These children will be organized into "Macaulay classes" and will be taught at Lampson street on shift system. Six classes in grades one to four will be affected.

Gordon Head-Frank Hobbs—About 40 pupils from Gordon Head area will attend Frank Hobbs from September until the new Gordon Head school is available early next year. Space will be available in view of a two-room addition at Frank Hobbs.

BOUNDARY SET

Richmond elementary school—Four classes of pupils in grades one to three to serve the area bounded roughly by Shelbourne street; North Dairy road and base of Mount Tolmie; Uplands golf course; Larkdowne, Maldowne, Henderson, Carnarvon; Foul Bay road, and Haultain street.

Cloverdale — it is anticipated two classes here will be on part-time education, until the school board is able to start the second phase of its building program.

Special classes—Environment for these classes at South Park will be improved by September by redecoration. Facilities are being improved.

Availability of space at South Park and the eventual demolition of annexes at George Jay will mean the transfer of a special class at George Jay to South Park.

Cave - temples in the Vindyha hills in Hyderabad are believed to have been built by Buddhist monks about 300 BC.

School Board Approves Teacher Appointments

Greater Victoria school board last night approved the appointment of 24 new elementary teachers, all but one Victoria Normal School graduates.

Another 20 teachers are needed.

The following appointments were approved:

Mrs. M. Edna Butcher, Misses Sylvia F. Conery, Margaret A. Fenner, Doreen G. Goudal, Patricia Ann Lowe, Sally J. C. McKeown, Alison R. MacQuarrie, Yvonne V. Poole, Shirley Marie Uphill and Beverley K. Walker;

Misses Barbara M. Allcock, Joyce A. Butler, Helen B. Dewar, Leslie K. Field, Susan J. Harrison, Margaret Little, Frances A. Pack; Arlene Raincock, Lois Tuck and Mary M. L. Findler;

Mrs. Lillian E. Mackay, E. V. Stavrakov and Bryan M. Mee.

Action Due

Greater Victoria school board last night agreed to take action to prevent further deterioration of the old Craigflower school house, erected in 1854 — the oldest remaining in Western Canada.

Now a museum, the building is in care of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of B.C.

Letters will be sent to the government and Native Sons urging a concerted effort to save the school.

Lion Rite Planned

The Chinese Chamber of Commerce will hold a lion dance on Fisgard street at 8 p.m. Thursday as a special welcome to about 45 members of the Hawaii Chinese Chamber of Commerce.

The group is on the first leg of a goodwill tour which will also take them through the Western United States and Mexico.

They are accompanied by their Nacissus Queen, Caroline Tong.

Official welcome will be given by Chinese Chamber of Commerce president George Joe and on the welcoming committee will be Wah Quon, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tang, Lee Gun, Dick Cheu and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Yee.

A banquet for the visiting chamber will be held at 6 p.m. Thursday and the Chinese Girls' Drill Team will participate in festivities starting at 8 p.m. outside the chamber office on Fisgard street.

True to Spirit of UN, Eisenhower Promises

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Eisenhower pledged himself Monday to go to next month's Big Four meetings true to the spirit of the United Nations and devoted to the UN charter.

He urged the other chiefs of government of the big powers—France Britain and the Soviet union—to do the same.

From a flag draped stage, the president opened the 10th anniversary celebration of the UN with a strong and emphatic reaffirmation of United States support.

He spoke to two score foreign ministers and hundreds of diplomats in the War Memorial Opera House where the UN charter was signed 10 years ago next Sunday. Canada is represented by External Affairs Minister Pearson and D. M. Johnson, retiring permanent UN delegate.

LOYAL TO UN SPIRIT

The foreign ministers of Britain, the United States and France held a last-minute closed meeting on the Big Four parley shortly before Eisenhower's speech. They arranged to hold their first formal session on that subject with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at a dinner Monday night.

Mindful of the hopes of millions for success at the Big Four parley beginning July 18 at Geneva, Eisenhower said:

"Within a month there will be a four-power conference of heads of government. Whether or not we shall then reach the initial decisions that will start dismantling the terrible apparatus of fear and mistrust and weapons erected since the end of World War II, I do not know.

"The basis for success is simply put: it is that every individual at that meeting be loyal to the spirit of the United Nations and dedicated to the principles of its charter.

"I can solemnly pledge to you here—and to all the men and women of the world who may hear or read my words—that those who represent the United States will strive to be thus loyal, thus dedicated. For us there is no alternative, because our devotion to the United Nations charter is the outgrowth of a faith deeply rooted in our cultural, political, spiritual traditions."

Vessel To Get Rudder

Finnish freighter Vaasa, which arirved at Victoria a month ago for rudder repairs, entered the government graving dock in Esquimalt yesterday. She sails for the U.S. Atlantic seaboard later in the week.

Officials of King Brothers Ltd., shipping agents, said Vaasa's cargo of almost 6,000,000 feet of lumber has been unloaded and a new rudder stock, forged in Seattle, has arrived.

STOCK CRACKED

Heavy weather on the Atlantic is believed to have caused a large crack in the stock, which caused the rudder to "act up" as Vaasa left Chemainus May 19 for sea.

Victoria Machinery Depot employees will need two days to fit the stock into place, after which cargo will be reloaded. Vaasa will leave Friday.

New Zealand Prefers Britons

DARGEVILLE, N. Z. (CP)—Of 100,000 immigrants to New Zealand in recent years, 80,000 were from Britain. Immigration minister J. R. Hanan said here: "The proportion is four to one in favor of Britain. We will keep it at that."

Ten Years After

TEN years ago, even before the guns had ceased firing last shots in the longest and bloodiest war in modern history, the United Nations came into being at San Francisco. Representatives of more than two-score nations that had seen war at first hand stood one by one on their feet before the huge assembly and pledged their homelands to follow the paths of peace in future. That was an eloquent, humanly moving appeal. It was followed by idealistic resolutions and the drafting of the United Nations Charter, which when signed was to bring world-wide, enduring peace to the fevered races of mankind. What happened?

The record is too plain, unfortunately. The idealism, the protestations and in some instances the signatures on the Charter remained of one piece—words without deeds. International suspicion and distrust continued unchecked; heightened in fact by factions, feuds and fights which still were smouldering after hostilities against Hitler and his cohorts had ceased. It has been a long and a weary way, these last 10 years. The victory which the wartime Allies had won on the battlefield never did become theirs in fact. Allies quarrelled and any fruits of victory quickly disappeared. An East and a West came into cleavage with a sharpness that no age has equalled before. Rearmament settled down as the principal watchword around the globe.

It is idle now to ask whose fault it was that victory brought neither surcease from fear nor any form of lasting peace. The result has remained to plague humanity.

Now once again the nations of the world, professing peace, are gathered in session at San Francisco. An eloquent and moving appeal has been made by President Eisenhower for construction with new-found atomic energy instead of destruction by the same dread power. His speech will be applauded, cheered and welcomed in every civilized land, as it rightly deserves to be. Delegates may stand on their feet and voice identical sentiments; and still that won't be enough. This time there must be deeds as well; the hour is growing late.

It is against such a background that the tenth anniversary of the United Nations is being staged. When the heads of the Big Four nations meet sometime in July on them individually and jointly will rest the weight of responsibility for 10 more years of the same harrowing nature, ending perhaps in holocaust—or the laying aside of all that by an honest return to the spirit of the Charter, which was written in blood and suffering while the last cannon fired. This world has grown too small for conflict, and the engines of war more powerful than man himself. Of necessity it must be peace now.

How Much Improvement?

RECENT publicity about the soot and cinders nuisance in the vicinity of the mill section of the city serves a useful purpose. It shows the industries responsible that people are watching and that they expect everything possible to be done to clear the air.

It would be idle for anyone to say that a nuisance does not exist. The evidence is incontestable, in deposits of soot and ash over a wide area. Houses and offices to leeward of the mills get the worst of it. The ash seeps through every opening, to lie in dirty drifts on ledges and in corners, ruining new paintwork, soiling clothes and making wash-day a headache for housewives. Only those exposed to this pollution can appreciate what a nuisance it is. Cars parked down wind of the mills are sometimes coated with grime within a matter of minutes, and if windows are not closed tightly the ash works its way inside the car as well, to soil upholstery and clothing.

The question is whether or not there has been an appreciable improvement since the anti-smoke by-law was passed. The city smoke inspector maintains that the pollution has lessened in the past year; and he, with his various means of measurement and his constant vigilance, is in a position to know. Just the same those exposed to worst of the trouble are hard to convince. There may be less soot and ash than a year ago, but it is plain for anyone to see that there is still more than enough to make living and working conditions very unpleasant.

The inspector has credited some of the mills and industrial plants with going to considerable work and expense in installing special equipment to minimize the nuisance. It is acknowledged that the nature of some of the operations in that area makes total elimination of smoke and cinders very difficult, but those affected may draw some encouragement from the fact that the situation is under constant study, and that the inspector is hopeful of further improvement in the near future through the use of new engineering devices. His assurance that the industries concerned are giving him full co-operation affords some comfort; but it is results that count, and up to now these have left a great deal to be desired.

Swimming the Strait

IF not quite like the English Channel the Strait of Juan de Fuca is proving a lure for long-distance or would-be long-distance swimmers. Hardly a week goes by now without notice of some fresh aspirant; it becomes difficult to keep track of them. At the moment, in addition to Mr. Bert Thomas, a genuine contender in serious training for his third attempt, there are about half-a-dozen others said to be toying with the idea of tackling this formidable assignment.

There being nothing to stop anyone from trying the Victoria - Port Angeles swim except his or her good sense this marine merry-go-round may continue the whole summer. If each contestant has the stuff to warrant the attempt, well and good; but if the object is merely to seek notoriety it would be better left unmade. Anyone is free to dive, jump or slide into the strait at will—unfortunately perhaps—but too many false starts by unproved aspirants incline to make people fed up with the whole business.

In any case public enthusiasm is diluted by the separate, indefinite dates set individually for several attempts. People don't take kindly to being on tenterhooks for weeks but instead are apt to become disinterested. Unlike the English Channel season so far few swimmers of established reputation have made Victoria the mecca of their ambitions.

It could be said in fact that the publicity value of the Juan de Fuca swim is petering out for want of a large-scale collective attempt. Certainly it would be debased by too much preoccupation by third-raters. Contenders sometimes justify their action on the ground that Victoria benefits from their attempts, probably a statement designed to secure a sponsor. If the most is to be made of channel swimming as an attraction here, however, perhaps the Chamber of Commerce could turn its attention to organizing a major meet for a single given time period. The value of the swim for tourist and publicity purposes could thus be exploited to the full as well as eliminating contenders who might be more at home in the Crystal pool.

Interpreting the News

The UN—Symbol of Hope

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

THERE is a tendency to criticize the United Nations because, although established to maintain peace, it has not made peace.

When the nations met at San Francisco 10 years ago to form a post-war organization, the Japanese were still fighting, nobody knew what would be found beneath the ruptured Nazi crust of Germany, and Russia was an ally of the Western powers.

Peace was to come through unity of the great powers. The cold war was in the already-written Russian books, but the West had not read them.

Once peace was made by the great powers, the UN was to have a police force to see that it was kept. That was a dream which died at birth.

Nevertheless the UN has on several occasions exerted great influence for peace. Its earliest triumph was to focus public opinion on Russia's efforts to continue her occupation of Iran after the war, causing her withdrawal from a position which contained an immediate threat of war.

The reports of UN teams likewise had their influence on Russia's abandonment of her objectives in Greece, and UN mediators ultimately produced an armistice, even though a shaky one, in Palestine.

The most momentous UN deed, of course, was the demonstration that free nations will not stand idly by while one of their number is conquered. For the first time in history an important number of nations—15—pooled their arms to defend a nation—South Korea—in which none had any great selfish interest.

Perhaps the most important thing the UN has done is merely to exist amid all the pressures which might have torn it down.

Not one nation has shown any sign of withdrawal, although some, such as Russia and South Africa, have been sorely vexed by expressions of international opinion through the forum.

The UN stands as a symbol of something for which man is searching.

As President Eisenhower says, without the United Nations the points where it has failed would still have been recorded as failures; and victories have been achieved which could not have been won without it.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT is the little things that count. Sometimes one wonders if enough note is taken of this; yet they are the stuff of history.

So simple a thing as a smile, for instance.

For all of his commentaries, I'm sure Caesar could have said something worthwhile on this point. Marc Antony at least, for if Cleopatra hadn't smiled on him . . .?

The fate of countless beings, remember, follows on the whim of the fellow at the top.

Let him have a bad headache, a disappointment, an emotional moment, be depressed or uplifted—and a stream of vast consequence may result.

There is, at the moment, an acrimonous dispute raging in print between Generals de Gaule and Weygand over the capitulation of France in 1940, and a reviewer recalls that they met, historically, on June 8 of that year.

* * *

Did Weygand smile, he asks? And what kind of smile? What did it signify?

There is the rub, although in the light of what happened it would seem that the smile, if any, must have been as frosty as an ice cube.

But supposing they had smiled, each of them, in warm, comradely fashion. Who can doubt the course of the war thereafter would have been much different.

Dale Carnegie, who makes a profession of such things, says the smile that comes from within has a good price in the market place. Of the human heart, he means.

How true.

If your pal says, grinning widely and affectionately, "Go to Gehenna," you do not take umbrage and grab a poker but instead merely return the compliment in kind.

But if he says it with a snarl?

* * *

The smile disarms. Why don't we use it more? In its proper place, of course.

It does not do in making a speech, for example, one that will be reported, to say what you don't mean because you employ a facial gesture your audience will understand. Tone and looks cannot be reproduced in cold type.

Some people think this was Air Vice-Marshal Plant's only mistake.

And as the song has it there are smiles that make you happy and smiles that make you sad.

The old black-moustached villain of early silent movies often smiled to show his pearly teeth, but he was ready to crunch his victim with them nevertheless.

One has to learn to distinguish the varieties.

There is the social smile, which couldn't care less about you in reality; the bland one, that serves as an excuse; the sarcastic one, that clearly thinks you are a moron; the eternal smile, which perpetuity has robbed of all meaning; the sly smile, aimed only to deceive.

* * *

These are essentially smiles only of the lips, whereas the real mackay lights up the face in a way that doesn't mislead.

The real smile sparkles, or breathes benevolence, or bespeaks its honesty through the eyes; although, alas, there are some good (bad) actors at the business.

Of Geneva, of the "summit" meeting of historic import, will some reviewer ask some day: Did Bulganin smile—or Eisenhower or Eden or Faure? And what kind of a smile? What did it signify?

Smiles are but trifles, perhaps, but scattered among mankind they have an immense influence for good or evil.

There may be doubt about Caesar's, or Weygand's or Bulganin's smile; but let us see that ours are above suspicion.

We won't regret it.

Reports from Ottawa

AMERICAN newspapermen who are calling on federal Health Minister Martin in a steady procession have one question which above all others they want answered.

It is "How did the Salk vaccine program in Canada manage to avoid the troubles which have beset the program in the U.S.?"

Martin and his aides find this question rather embarrassing. They're proud of Canada's record: 800,000 children immunized without a single case of polio which can be traced to the vaccine, plus the prospect that 1,000,000 will have received shots by July 31, and 3,000,000 by next March 31. But Martin and his officials don't want to seem critical of what the Americans have done, or supercilious, or least of all, to gloat over U.S. misfortunes.

So the authorities here, and the authorities at the Connaught Medical Research Laboratories at Toronto, where the Canadian vaccine is made, have adopted a policy of giving factual information about what has been and is being done in Canada, while refusing to comment on any aspect of the U.S. situation.

* * *

From what the American newsmen learn here, the Canadian success is attributable to four main factors.

The one which impresses them most is Canada's double safety check on all vaccine before it is administered to children. At Connaught samples of each batch are injected into 18 monkeys, and additional samples are subjected to 14 test tube culture checks. Then the whole procedure is repeated in the government's laboratory of hygiene at Ottawa—18 more monkeys, 14 more test tube checks.

In the States, according to the U.S. public health service's report on what went wrong with the American program, the biologics control laboratory agreed to take the word of private manufacturers as to the safety of their vaccine and the efficiency of their processing methods. The government laboratory carried out only spot checks on the output of the five pharmaceutical firms turning out vaccine.

* * *

Some of the U.S. newsmen who have come here to write the Canadian story believe that our superior safety precautions were mainly instrumental in preventing vaccine containing live polio virus from being administered to children. Martin and his officials admit their tests uncovered two batches of Connaught vaccine which were sub-standard and had to be destroyed.

In the U.S. two batches of vaccine made by the Cutter Laboratories were not discovered to be dangerous, although they apparently caused most of the four score cases of paralytic polio in vaccinated children.

U.S. writers also recognize the good staff planning among the federal and provincial governments and the Connaught labs on production and distribution. However, they also recognize that the comparative smallness of the Canadian program has made it easier to control processes of production than has been the case in the States, and also that Canada has been lucky.

Before the Americans' troubles started, our laboratory of hygiene was accepting the U.S. biologics control laboratory's spot checks as proof of the safety of vaccine produced by a U.S. company, Parke-Davis, which was being exported to Canada in small quantities. We were just plain lucky that we hadn't licensed Cutter to produce vaccine for sale in Canada.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

IN the working world there are two broad classes. There are those who pretend to be working but aren't. And there are those who are working and love to pretend they are not.

In my youth, we had a famous city editor, Colin Campbell, who made a sinister study of his staff along these lines. He found a type that not only appear to be working furiously, but really are. For these he had a mild contempt. He found a second large group who appeared to be working furiously, but were doing little or nothing. For them he reserved most of the night assignments, desk duty right under his nose, and service club luncheons.

The class he loved best were those who were working hard, shrewdly and effectively, but who delighted in appearing to be doing nothing. These were his pets. From them he made his feature writers; he boosted them to the publisher as editorial writers, and all the sweet assignments out of town, with expense accounts, he reserved for these pretenders.

I thought in those days that this was merely a whim on the part of a wily, clever, headstrong man who was a most gifted city editor. But only the other day the president and general manager of a very big industrial plant whom I was interviewing called in one of his junior executives.

A more indolent-looking man I never saw. He came into the presidential presence with neither spring nor bounce. He entered leisurely. He took a chair without ceremony. He answered the Old Man's questions reflectively, thoughtfully. He scratched his head. He lit a cigarette and got up and walked over to take the ash tray off the president's desk. He did not wait to be dismissed. He simply got up, asked if that were all, and strolled out.

"Your nephew?" I asked.

The Old Man laughed uproariously.

"That," he said, "is the hardest working man in this whole organization, counting even me. When he came into the business eight years ago as a kid, I thought he was the laziest coot I had ever hired. It took me a year to find out. He just doesn't like to appear to be working. It is an affectation of a great many of the smartest characters I have ever met."

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Grown-ups always seem to feel impelled to inquire of the school child, "Well, and what did you learn today?" Wouldn't it be embarrassing if the child countered with the same question?

At an eastern university the chirps of crickets and other noisy insects are being recorded. If they'd give the record a name that doesn't mean anything, it could easily lead the hit parade. Or they might cash in on it right away by labelling it "Davy Cricket."

A cowboy rode up to a saloon in a small town and ordered a big bucket of beer. After the bucket was filled, the cowboy took it outside and put it in front of his horse. The horse proceeded to lap up the suds.

The bartender said, "Podner, I like to see a man who is kind to his horse. Can I buy you a drink?"

"No, thanks," said the cowboy, "I'm driving."

Challenge to Adenauer

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE North Atlantic Treaty Organization has no more loyal ally than the West German chancellor, Dr. Adenauer. The confidence President Eisenhower expressed in a recent press conference is entirely justified.

But Chancellor Adenauer is not a dictator. He is the constitutional prime minister of a country that cannot be governed without the support of public opinion, and this is in perpetual flux.

The Soviet government can adopt any policy it chooses, and reverse itself totally in 24 hours. There is no public debate or discussion, but only private debate and discussion, confined to the upper echelons of the state and the Communist party. In West Germany there are numerous parties, factions within them, and free expression by powerful organized groups and individuals.

Public opinion in all Germany demands that the chancellor accept the invitation to visit Moscow and confer regarding the "normalization of relations" with the Soviets.

"Normalization of relations" involves, as the Soviet note suggests, the exchange of diplomatic representatives, exploration of ways to raise the level of trade, establishment of cultural links, and of ways to effect German national unity, the latter being the key question for all Germans.

The chancellor's visit must either produce some results in these fields, favorable to Germany, or his government will lose support from public opinion.

And this achievement will involve very astute diplomatic bargaining.

Germany is in a radically different position from the other NATO states. She is not a "North Altantic" power, as the title "NATO" defines the Western organization. She is the central power of Europe. Her long-range interests must, ideally, be satisfactorily oriented eastward as well as westward.

* * *

The Soviet note points out that between the wars one-fifth of the trade of both countries was with each other. The figure would be much larger were the trade with the East European states considered. Hamburg was the chief port of Czechoslovakia. And in industrially and agriculturally backward Eastern Europe lies the largest European field for German economic know-how.

Although German trade was always heavier with the West than the East, the eastern opportunities certainly concern the Ruhr industrialists, strongly though they support the chancellor. The note is nicely baited for them.

Germany, because of her central position, has a crucial interest in avoiding war. She contributed, though in the second degree, to start the First World War, did start the Second World War, and lost both. It is ridiculous to say that nations never learn a lesson. All nations learn lessons, though usually the hard way.

The German problem is, however, not merely a problem for Germany and the Soviets to settle. It involves all the other European states and the United States.

If Germany, for the sake of "normalizing relations" with the Soviets, imperils her relations with Western Europe and the United States, she is sunk. Her ties with the West constitute her chief bargaining asset to achieve from the Soviets unity and freedom.

Without them she would steadily be infiltrated with the new Communist line of national Bolshevism. (It will appeal to neo-Nazis, and be supported by many German "intellectuals", who have made a profession of baiting America.)

Chancellor Adenauer's problem—and, as I see it, the problem of his successors—is therefore to find a way of becoming a catalytic agent for normalizing relations between the Soviets and the whole West, contributing, from a Western stance, to ease the tensions between the Soviets and NATO without imperilling either side or herself.

It is a function requiring the highest order of statesmanship.

It is not soluble by "appeasement". It requires the establishment of a modus vivendi that will work because it is to the rational interest of all that it should be maintained.

THE CLOUD

I am the daughter of earth and water,
And the nursling of the sky;
I pass through the pores of the ocean and shores;
I change, but I cannot die.
For after the rain when with never a stain
The pavilion of Heaven is bare,
And the winds and sunbeams with their convex gleams
Build up the blue dome of air,
I silently laugh at my own cenotaph,
And out of the caverns of rain,
Like a child from the womb, like a ghost from the tomb,
I arise and unbuild it again.

Letters to the Editor

Highway Speed

I note in the press that "highway deaths bring crackdown," giving details that 42 persons lost their lives on B.C.'s highways between January 1 and April 30. Accidents to 7,119 in the same period, with property damage assessed at $2,397,474. Staggering statistics, aren't they? And yet we meekly absorb them and do nothing to remedy the problem.

In many cases it is the younger element chiefly responsible for this, so I figure the only way to curb this tremendous loss is to reduce the speed to safer and saner limits.

To do so effectively is a job for our federal authorities to introduce controls in the manufacture, even though Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi is reported to have backed down on lifting speed limits on certain B.C. highways.

So our duty is to prod the federal government into action.

Lost and Found

Thank you for the nice little write-up in today's paper (June 15) about the return of my little pet dog, Mickey.

Once again the medium of newspaper advertising comes to the fore. It was through this channel that Mickey's ownership was traced.

The lost and found column seems to be one of the most widely read, and it has always proved money well spent to me.

The little touch of human pathos that editors seem to possess is a virtue that can reach deep down into the hearts of the reading public.

Could my little pet but speak, he would join me in conveying my very grateful appreciation.

Years Not Months

With reference to despatch in Colonist of June 16, under the caption "Queen Gives Highest Medal, etc.," it says that the man in question was sentenced to 10 months. This should read 10 years as per attached clipping from a London paper.

I thing in fairness to England you should publish a correction to show that England does not stand for this kind of thing, hence the stiff sentence of 10 years—10 months would be absurd.

B.C. Birthday

According to native sons who know best, and those who know the history of British Columbia, the 100th birthday of British Columbia won't be until November 19, 1966. Why should we therefore celebrate it before she comes of age? It is not only absurd but it is unfair to all British Columbians, especially those born on this island. Russel Potter, chairman of the Victoria section of the B.C. Historical Society, says: "Vancouver Island was not part of British Columbia until 1866 so how could the 100th birthday of B.C. be marked in 1958?" It is also as Mayor Harrison says, and he is a native son, a dishonest absurdity."

The provincial librarian and archivist says the centennial birthday of this province technically is November 19, 1966. He is one who should know the facts, if anyone should. He also states that "the 1858 date was full of animosities because at that time — "the Island hated the mainland," and he added how could anyone make a colorful celebration out of a dreary act of parliament which made the mainland a crown colony?

I myself, if I had been alive in those days, I would never have stood for Vancouver Island ever joining the rest of the province at all. She should have been distinctly a colony all by her own sweet little self.

(Mrs.) ADELAIDE MARSHALL,
749 Fort street,

Poor Treatment

The treatment handed out to Mr. Penfold of the PGC stinks, and Mr. Penfold may take some comfort in knowing that most people, who know anything about the case, think so. This civil servant of 30 years' service has been made the scapegoat for the ignorance and inefficiency of others.

It must be a source of deep discouragement to the civil service when they see the same old political patronage at work after all the pious saws these people handed out at election time. Let the civil service see that the next government does differently and runs the province with at least justice.

These remarks in no way criticize Dr. Angus, who is obviously a man of high attainment, but the appointment should have gone to Mr. Penfold.

Fierce Females Fighting

SAIGON, Indochina (UP) — Fierce black-robed women warriors of the rebel Hoa Hoa sect have joined in the fighting against Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's national army.

National army troops returning from a government campaign against the rebels in West Cochin China reported Monday that the women had [illegible] hand fighting.

They said the government troops preferred to kill themselves rather than fall into the hands of the fanatical Amazons. The rebel women are known for their cruelty and are reported to torture prisoners.

The returning soldiers said the women were commanded by Lethi Gam, wife of the top Hoa Hoa commander, Gen. Tran Van Soai who has fled to neighboring Cambodia. She is a "general" in her own right.

The loyal troops said the fierce, knife-wielding women, dressed in black, joined the close combat that raged June 16 in the rice-bowl campaign [illegible]

There were few other details, except that the battle was fought with extreme savagery.

The women warriors have never been seen in battle before. They have been serving as bodyguards.

Plan Now for Centre Architect Urges City

and Government street are most appalling."

He urged that the business section be "scaled down to the pedestrian. We must see the city from the pedestrian point of view."

"The location and presentation of a civic centre or auditorium must be considered from a "streetscape" point of view, he emphasized. "It must be scaled for the human being and have life, interest, color, and sense of rhythm built into the structure.

SEX APPEAL

"You could say we must put sex appeal into the building design."

He said the Social Credit government in Alberta was now building civic auditoriums for Calgary and Edmonton which he estimated would cost $3,000,000 each.

Mr. Clack thought two Alberta buildings, which he said will include all afcilities of a convention centre, are what the Social Credit government is thinking about for Victoria, but added that $1,000,000 won't build on that scale.

"To provide what they expect to have, $1,000,000 is not too much in Victoria," he said, "and $500,000 certainly is not enough for a convention centre.

"Next step in getting a convention centre for Victoria is for the site to be made available and financing made definite," Mr. Clack said.

He thought a convention centre was the first need for Victoria.

NON-PROFIT GROUP

Mr. McEwen's plan is to have a non-profit organization build the auditorium, financed by government-backed bonds.

"Support so far has been above anything I expected, both from individuals and organizations, Mr. McEwen told The Daily Colonist.

"We fully realize there has been a lot of work done on this question. Now the government has offered to do something we want to take advantage of it.

"It is not something one organization can undertake. It must be a community-wide undertaking and above politics."

Mr. Clack, of Clack and Clayton, city architects, who have made a study of the project, will be one of the speakers at the meeting.

Princess Street Sets Record at Lansdowne

VANCOUVER (BUP) — A new track record for the four and one-half furlong distance was set at Lansdowne Park Monday when jockey Ken Coppernoll rode Princes Street to victory in the third race.

Princes Street, owned by Midlothian Stables, paid $3.10, $2.90 and $2.70.

Between 50 and 60 delegates from all parts of British Columbia are expected to attend the 13th annual meeting of the Joint Council of Municipal Employees of B.C. in Victoria this week-end.

Bard Wheatcroft, president of the City Hall Employees' Association in Victoria, said yesterday a local committee of members of the city, Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and school board staffs was making final arrangements for the meeting.

The committe is acting for the Vancouver Island Council of Municipal Employees, which will be host for the convention.

Business sessions will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Empress hotel. The convention banquet will be at the Monterey on Saturday evening.

Complete agenda has not yet been received in Victoria, Mr Wheatcroft said, but superannuation will be one of the subjects discussed.

Thomas Lewis of Vancouver is president of the B.C. council.

He was treated at King's Daughters' hospital and released.

Ladysmith Pioneer Turns 86 Tomorrow

LADYSMITH—Alfred G. King, prominent mid-Island surveyor who help found the city of Ladysmith more than 50 years ago, will celebrate his 86th birthday here Wednesday.

Mr. King, who lives here with his son, Bruce R. King, and Mrs. King, is an avid reader and conversationalist who takes a keen interest in local affairs.

He came with Robert James Dunsmuir, founder of the city, to look this district over in 1897.

Mr. Dunsmuir was looking for a place to build a town to be a shipping point for his coal reserves at Extension. In 1898, Mr. King returned with Mr. Dunsmuir and the coal wharves and bunkers were built. Construction of the townsite followed later.

Mr. King laid out the waterworks here and has surveyed all the nearby land including the railway to Extension where the coal was mined.

After completing his work for the Dunsmuir interests, Mr. King left for Nanaimo where he was well-known as a B.C. land surveyor. He returned to live with his son here in 1949.

Another son, John R. King, lives in Nanaimo.

Mr. King was born in London, England in 1869 and came to Canada, arriving in Vancouver, on May 24, 1888. He is an authority on the old pioneer days.

Street Fight Nearly Starts Nanaimo Riot

NANAIMO—A near riot ensued when a large group of people gathered to watch police arrest two intoxicated men who were fighting on Commercial street Saturday night.

The two, Emmett William Meredith, 20, and Gerald Watts, 19-year-old Alberni Indian, were fined $75 and costs each when they appeared before Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts in police court yesterday.

Watts became violent when police attempted to get him into the patrol car and two extra policemen had to be called.

The magistrate warned the two men there would be dire results if they came before him again on a similar charge.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Although menaced by atheistic communism, the world's population must settle the problem of living together, said Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia, in an address here Sunday.

"We must choose the way of Christ or the way of chaos and destruction," he told 20 confirmation candidates in St. Peter's Anglican church.

Bad Road Termed Squeeze-Out

CAMPBELL RIVER—Refusal of the provincial government to recondition the Rock Bay road was an excuse to squeeze out the small logging operator to make way for the big logging monopolies, it was charged here during the week-end.

Residents of the small community of Rock Bay, 40 miles north of here, met in Campbell River to arrange a delegation to take a petition to the provincial government.

The road was constructed by small logging operators many years ago, and is said to be "in a deplorable condition, dangerous, and a menace to life."

The government recently advised Harry Worth of the Worth Logging Company that a district engineer had visited the road and had advised that the cost of reconditioning it was prohibitive.

NANAIMO—Neil Wallace Weir of Work Point Barracks, who was injured when his car collided with another driven by Mrs. G. G. Baal of Courtenay, was released from Nanaimo Hospital yesterday. Mrs. Baal, who suffered leg injuries, is still in hospital, but is in satisfactory condition.

CINDERELLA STORY: Saturday night's grind was considerably brightened by the stories out of San Francisco telling how an unknown professional golfer had come out of nowhere under the severest kind of pressure to tie the mighty Ben Hogan and force a playoff for the San Francisco golf championship.

It was the kind of a story which would thrill anyone except, perhaps, the fellows on the newsroom desk, inured to excitement by the derring-do of channel swimmers.

The story of this unknown, closer to the pace than anyone expected and playing his game with a gallery of about 25, coming through with at least $50,000 riding on every shot, and suddenly finding at least 10,000 pairs of eyes watching every move, was something no writer of fiction would have dared use.

But Jack Fleck, who came through the Normandy invasion, was equal to the task. Everyone must know by now how he rallied after a bogey on the 14th to get two birdies and two pars over as tough a finish as you can find on any modern course to gain his title. His iron shot out of the rough on the 18th to within seven feet of the cup on a postage-stamp green and the sinking of a tricky side-hill putt for his birdie three will always rank as one of the great finishes in the golf world's most highly-rated championship.

Hogan is one of golf's real greats, ranking with Harry Vardon and Bobby Jones, and under ordinary circumstances, there wouldn't have been many who wouldn't have wished for him his fifth open title. Bantam Ben was ready to retire and he really wanted to leave competitive golf as the only man to win five times.

Fleck, however, was the crowd favorite and he came through in championship style to leave only momentary regret that Hogan was balked. The fellow who had won only $2,700 on the so-called "gold-trail" didn't panic when Hogan played his par game over a really-tough 18 holes. Hogan was even with par after 17 holes but he was one stroke behind and the pressure was on him when he teed up for the 18th. His right foot slipped and he was in the rough, where he took two shots to get four feet and finally wound up with a double bogey. But Hogan didn't lose, he was beaten by better golf and, for that one day at least, a better golfer.

INTERESTING FIGHT: It may end in a first-round knockout or it may be a one-sided decision but few recent fights have created as much interest as tomorrow night's matching of middleweight-champion Bobo Olson and light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore.

Moore, at the moment, is a 2-1 favorite but fight fans everywhere are arguing about this one and a lot of money will change hands when it's all over.

Much is being made of Moore's weight. It was reported that he weighed 196 pounds for his bout with Nino Valdes and there is the thought that he will be weakened by being forced to pare 21 pounds. It has also been reported that he actually weighed 186 for Valdes and added 10 pounds to sucker Olson into a fight.

Be that as it may, Moore rates the current odds off past records. The veteran, who may be as old as 42, has long been the best ringman around in the heavier divisions, and there is more than speculation to the thought that heavyweight-champion Rocky Marciano has long been ducking the canny Moore.

It can be argued that Olson has too much at stake to risk a fight with Moore unless he was reasonably certain of winning. Sid Flaherty, Olson's manager, is a smart operator and he has been pointing Olson for a shot at Marciano. It does seem reasonable to think he isn't taking any unnecessary chances.

On the other hand, Moore has even more at stake (no pun intended). He is through as a top-notch attraction if he loses, while Olson can go back to his middleweight class and still be No. 1. A Moore victory means that Marciano will have to fight Moore and if this one takes place this year, it's not ridiculous to believe the heavyweight champion might finally lose.

Olson may be good enough to handle Moore but the middleweight champion, while a tough man to beat, is not rated by experts as in Moore's class as a fighter.

Olson has the advantage of age and the hope that Moore won't be able to make 175 pounds and retain his strength. But it should be a question of a good big man against a good little man. If Moore weighs 175 at weigh-in time, he'll be at least 180 at fight time. Olson will be around 170 and it's a question if the added 10 pounds will help him or hinder him. He'll lose a certain amount of mobility and in Moore he meets a fellow who can really punch and who is nearer his natural weight at 180 than Olson is at 170. It looks to me as if Bobo may have bitten off more than he can chew.

Victoria Police stretched its lead in Pony League baseball action Sunday by downing runner-up Cosmopolitans, 8-5, at Carnarvon Park but McCall-Davey, Babe Ruth League leader, didn't fare as well and dropped a 5-1 decision to fifth-place Optimists at Beacon Hill park.

Don Colliers held Cosmopolitans to four hits and helped his own cause with a triple as the city police moved a game-and-a-half ahead of their opponents.

In Sunday's other Pony League contest, Oak Bay Police handed Mawson-Gage its sixth straight defeat, 9-4, with the help of Barry Williams' steady pitching.

McCall-Davey suffered its second defeat in 12 starts as the Druggists' lead over United Commercial Travelers was shaved to one game. George Brice held the league-leaders to three hits and struck out 14 in gaining his first victory of the season.

Brice lost his bid for a second victory on Sunday when Tillicums chalked up a 5-3 victory. Brice again went the distance, giving up five hits, but had control trouble and walked 10.

Anglers Find Utopia at Manitoba Resort

There's apparently nothing "fishy" about the fish stories they tell at God's lake, for 30 and 40-pound pike and lake trout are common catches in the remote fishermen's Shangri-La. Accessible only by plane, God's lake is 460 miles northeast of Winnipeg. Although accommodation charges average $500 per week, eager anglers from all parts of North America pack the area from June to September. Here Mary and Jimmy Smith display a husky pike. One fisherman caught 26 lake trout during a short visit, the largest weighing 32 pounds.

Speaking Briefly

Moore May Have Lured Olson With Reports of Extra Poundage

One of the most intriguing sidelights on Wednesday's light-heavyweight championship fight is the possibility, seemingly not too remote, that Archie Moore has put a fast one over on middleweight king Bobo Olson and his advisers.

An Associated Press report states that a rumor has been circulating through New York fight circles that Moore, who is known to be a slick operator, didn't exactly scale a portly 196½ pounds for his victory over Nino Valdes in Las Vegas May 2. All Archie weighed, the rumor goes, was 186½.

The angle is that Olson, who is still only a heavy widdleweight, was suckered into the match in the belief he would be fighting a veteran who had been forced to punish himself in melting off 25 pounds in a month's training.

The new version, if true, alters the picture considerably and it is significant that the odds on Moore have lengthened to 2-1 for their tussle at the Polo Grounds and Moore has predicted he will weigh in at 174⅞ pounds.

Millionaire steamship tycoon Blaise d'Antoni made identical $150,000 offers to Moore and Olson Monday to meet the winner of the Joey Maxim-Willie Pastrano fight in a match at New Orleans . . . Joe Louis, former heavyweight boxing champion, has been ordered to appear June 27 before the U.S. tax court which is seeking to collect $249,611 in income taxes.

The Lawn Tennis Association of Australia gave its official blessing yesterday to the marriage of tennis star Lewis Hoad and Jennifer Staley in London last Saturday. The association decided to send a congratulatory telegram to the couple after its president, Sir Norman Brookes, had Sunday bitterly criticized team captain Harry Hopman for not informing the association of the wedding . . . Three Italian motorcycle racers were killed Sunday during the 1,100 kilometre Milan-Taranto road race in Italy . . . Doctors at a Galveston hospital said Monday night that surgery is being considered for Babe Didrickson Zaharias. The golf star has been troubled with a ruptured disc in her spine.

Captain Len Hutton will not play any more for England in any of the four remaining test cricket matches against the South Africans this season. The selection committee announced that Peter May has accepted the captaincy after Hutton missed the first test because of lumbago . . . Lawrence Barclay of Vancouver defeated veteran Henri Rochon to win the Mont Gabriel, Quebec, tennis tournament over the week-end . . . Lanky Doug Rajus Sunday retained his Vancouver city amateur golf championship with a 36-hole total of 136 for a five-stroke lead over Brian Copp.

New York Giants, who sped into the world series, which they won in straight games last year on a combination of pinch-pitching by Mary Grissom and Hoyt Wilhelm, the pinch-hitting of Dusty Rhodes, and the sensational play of Willie Mays, are having nothing but troubles this season.

Grissom and Hoyt aren't getting the side out in time any more, Rhodes is just another substitute, and on Sunday, manager Leo Durocher saw fit to bench Mays, who had been called by some enthusiasts greater than Cobb, Ruth or any other baseball great you'd care to mention.

HOPELESS

It didn't help. The Giants lost, 8-7, to Milwaukee. Last night, they took a 5-3 setback from the Cincinnati Redlegs and the way things are going, they'll have to brighten up to stay in the first division.

Last night's defeat was their fifth in a row. It dropped the Giants below .500, left them 15½ games behind the front-running Brooklyn Dodgers, and only three games ahead of Philadelphia Phils and St. Louis Cardinals, who share sixth spot.

Rhodes did hit a home run last night. Jim Hearn, who has been the steadiest of the Giant pitchers, didn't last through the four-run fifth inning and the Giants couldn't do much with Art Fowler, who went the route for the first time this season.

Meanwhile, Milwaukee Braves, apparently straightened out, won their fourth in a row, over Pittsburgh, 2-1, to move two games ahead of New York and within two and a half games of the second-place Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs and Dodgers, who open a series today, were idle yesterday along with all American League clubs. In the third National League game, St. Louis bested the Phils, 4-1, as rookie-southpaw Luis Arroya got win No. 8.

RESPOND TO THREAT

New York Yankees stole the spotlight in Sunday's action as they slammed back into the American League lead by knocking off the Chicago White Sox twice, 7-1 and 5-2.

Ed Lopat showed some of his old form in the opener as the Yanks' right-handed power knocked out Billy Pierce, star Chicago southpaw, in the fourth inning. Rookies Elston Howard and Bill Skowron hit home runs for the New Yorkers.

Another southpaw, Jack Harshman, took his lumps in the second game although tied at 2-2 going into the seventh. Then the Yankee right-handed hitters took over again. Gil McDougald hit a home run and Hank Bauer hit a triple. That brought in righthander Sandy Consuegra but switch-hitting Mickey Mantle just moved to the first-base side of the plate and hit a homer for the insurance runs.

WILLIE MAYS
. . . not smiling now

Cleveland Indians ran afoul of the Boston Red Sox again and dropped four games off the pace as rookie Herb Score was routed in an 11-7 slugfest. Ted Williams hit two home runs and Norm Zauchin and Jim Piersall hit one each as the Sox made [illegible] runs.

In the National League Sunday, the Dodgers tacked a half-game on their lead by whacking the Cards, 7-4. The Cubs lost a 1-0 thriller to the Phils in 15 innings, then came back to win the second game, 8-3. Hall Jeffcoat, reformed outfielder, was the loser in the first game. It was his first defeat in seven decisions.

Stan Ball Leads List In Third Derby Week

No fish were reported weighed in yesterday as the fourth week of qualifying fishing started in the annual Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby got under way.

However, there was a good scramble for qualifying rungs as the third week ended Sunday. Twenty-two salmon were weighed in, disappointing as many anglers. A number didn't get large enough fish to qualify while a number who held rungs as of Saturday night were knocked off the ladder and into the "Dufferk' Derby," which is for those who weigh in salmon but fail to make the master ladder in the weekly qualifying periods.

They can try again in the six remaining qualifying weeks.

Biggest salmon caught Sunday, and also the biggest of the week, was a 22-pound, one-ounce catch made by Stan Ball. He was fishing near the Goldstream island with planer and plenty of line and used a Macs Squid plug for a lure.

Ball's fish won him $15, top weekly prize. Other weekly prize winners were Jim Cannon, Dick Dewsbury, A. G. Lambie and John Casilio, who won $10, $8, $7 and $5, respectively.

Officials will announce the winner of the hidden-weight prize today.

Canadians Eliminated In Wimbledon Opening

LONDON (CP) — The seeded players in the men's singles of the Wimbledon all-England lawn tennis championships emerged safely Monday from their first - round matches.

The two Canadians in the competition, however, were beaten. Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., lost to Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 and Don Fontana of Toronto went down 6-0, 7-5, 6-2 to Adrian Quist of Australia.

Of the seeded players only Australia's Lew Hoad, ranked fourth, and defending champion Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt, seeded sixth, had any real difficulty. Hoad, a bridegroom of 48 hours, looked sluggish and sleepy as he defeated fellow Australian, Robert Howe, 7-5, 7-5, 6-2. Drobny won from Rene Buser of Switzerland, 6-3, 6-1, 6-2, despite a minor shoulder injury and appendix trouble.

LIKES LOOSE RACKET

Top-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, using a weakly - strung racket "because it's better for control," won easily from Australia's Mal Anderson, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Ken Rosewall, second - seeded from Australia, defeated Britain's G. D. Owen 6-4, 6-4, 6-1 in a typical one-sided first-rounder.

Other seeded players fared this way: No. 2, Vic Seixas of Philadelphia won from A. J. Clayton of Britain, 6-3, 6-0, 6-0; No. 5, Rex Hartwig of Australia, defeated R. J. Lee, Britain, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2 and No. 7, Budge Patty of Los Angeles, defeated fellow - American G. W. Brulinger, Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

Eighth-seeded Sven Davidson of Sweden knocked out the American a Davis Cupper, Hamilton Richardson. He turned back the Rhodes scholar from Baton Rouge, La., 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 8-6.

Only two other players of international rank lost during the cool, cloudy day—Lennart Bergelin of Sweden and Roger Becker of Britain, both Davis Cup players.

Bergelin was defeated by South Africa's promising 20-year-old Gordon Forbes, 4-6, 2-6, 6-2, 12-10, 9-7. Becker, 22, due to replace Tony Mottram as Britain's best, lost to T. T. Fancutt, South Africa, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

BEN HOGAN
. . . retires from golf

Fleck Wins Playoff; Hogan To Retire

SAN FRANCISCO—Jack Fleck, a 32-year-old pro from Davenport, Iowa, where he is the operator of two municipal courses, wrote a magnificent new chapter into the history of the U.S. Open on Sunday.

Playing like the champion he was to be, Fleck won golf's most-coveted championship by turning in a sparkling one-under-par 69 in a playoff with Ben Hogan, the remorseless [illegible] an unprecedented fifth title.

Hogan, who became one of golf's greats by the simple method of playing his game and letting the other fellow beat himself, was the one who cracked under the terrific pressure.

Trailing by only one stroke after getting a birdie on the tough 17th, Hogan drove his tee shot into the rough. Two swings moved his ball only four feet and although he got down in one putt, Hogan had to put down a double-bogey six on his card and finished three strokes behind his apparently nerveless opponent.

During the presentation ceremonies immediately after the playoff, Hogan announced his retirement from competitive golf.

"I'm through with competitive golf," he said. "I came here with the idea of trying to win. I worked harder, I think, than I ever did before in my life. From now on, I'm a week-end golfer. I want to play just for the pleasure of it because I want to be around the fellows and around golf. Golf is my life."

It was Fleck's first major tournament victory and one of the most surprising in the history of the Open. In 10 practice rounds, the Iowa pro failed to break 80 on the toughened Olympic course and even thought seriously of not playing.

But he shot a 76 in the first round, got into contention with a 69 in the second round and followed with a 75 for 220 at the three-quarter mark.

Fleck at this time was within three strokes of the leading Hogan but nobody gave him a chance. Then came Saturday's sensational finish which set the stage for the playoff.

Needing four pars and a birdie to tie on the last five holes, Fleck bogied the 14th and Hogan apparently had his fifth championship in the bag. But Fleck birdied the 15th, got his pars on the rugged 16th and 17th holes, and came up to the 18th needing a birdie three to tie.

Watched by close to 12,000 fans, he drove into the rough but came out with a magnificent iron shot which left him a seven-foot sidehill putt. He tapped it in briskly without a trace of nervousness.

Sunday, with 10,000 fans crowding the course and sometimes breaking through lines, Fleck again showed his coolness although he had never before played before such a large audience or under such terrific pressure.

He showed his mettle on the eighth. Trailing by one stroke, Hogan put his tee shot on the par three hole about 35 feet from the pin. Fleck was seven feet away but almost everyone expected him to crack when Hogan sank his long putt.

Instead, Fleck sank his putt to get a half with a birdie deuce, then birdied the ninth and 10th holes to go three up.

Hogan, fighting back, picked up a stroke on the 11th, lost it back on the 12th and then birdied the 14th to move within two strokes. A par by Hogan on the 17th cut the lead to one stroke but Fleck played it safely on the 18th for his par after Hogan got off his bad drive.

Fleck's big break came on the ninth. Needing an 18-foot putt for his birdie, he stroked the ball too hard but his line was good and the ball hit the back of the cup, bounced into the air and plopped in.

After the playoff, Fleck said he wasn't at all nervous. "After all," he explained, "I had hoped only to get into the first 10, so I wouldn't have to qualify for next year's Open."

However, emotion showed when the crowd, which had been pulling for him throughout, gave him a tremendous ovation as he stepped off the 18th green after holing the putt which gave him his par four.

Fleck, who was the only one to break par more than once—he did it three times—not only has a style similar to Hogan's but Hogan was his childhood hero and he used Ben Hogan clubs.

Victory was worth $6,000 in immediate cash plus $50,000 or more from other sources to a fellow who hasn't made expenses since trying his hand at tournament golf. Hogan picked up $3,600 for being runner-up.

McColl Wins Zone 1, Mid-Island Golf Titles

Vancouver Island Open golf champion Bill McColl won the Mid-Island and Zone 1 crowns in combined competitions at Nanaimo Golf and Country Club Sunday.

Winner of the Cowichan Open at Duncan three weeks ago, the Colwood Golf Club swinger played steadily to put together rounds of 34-34-36 over the nine-hole course for a 104-stroke total in the 27-hole Mid-Island event to edge Victoria amateur champion Laurie Kerr by a single stroke.

SIZZLING ROUND

McColl then fired a sizzling four-under-par 30 to complete the 36-hole Zone 1 tourney with a two-under-par 134, seven strokes in front of club-mate Kerr, who again finished in the runner-up spot.

Don Carlow of Gorge Vale, had rounds of 71-71 to come in one stroke back of Kerr at 142, while Gorge Vale's Bob Fleming, winner of both the Mid-Island and Zone 1 titles for the past two years, was fourth at 144 after rounds of 75 and 69. Colwood champion George Andrews recorded a total of 145 for a fifth-place finish.

McColl started his fourth round by ramming in a 50-foot putt for an eagle three on the 485-yard first hole, and had three birdies and one bogey over the final eight holes. Two of the birdies came on the par-three fifth and ninth holes.

Scores in the Zone 1 competition will count towards selection of the team to represent British Columbia in inter-provincial competition for the Willingdon Cup.

Beaulac faced only 34 batters over the nine-inning route and was in serious trouble only in the third inning when the Clothiers loaded the bases.

Ed Foychuck was a hard-luck loser as he went the distance on the mound for Fletchers. City opened the scoring with an unearned run in the second inning and added an insurance tally in the sixth when Don Paulin scored on George Brown's single after being safe at third base on Gordy Jones' error.

Arrow Furniture gets a chance to move into a first-place deadlock this evening when it takes on last-place United Services at Central park.

Peters Honored

LONDON (CP) — The Duke of Edinburgh presented a medal to retired marathoner Jim Peters at the offices of the National Playing Fields Association. The award commemorates the courage shown by Peters in his unsuccessful effort at the Vancouver British Empire Games, when he had a long lead and collapsed near the finish.

Scots Extend Soccer Loops By Five Clubs

LONDON (Reuters)—An extension of the soccer leagues was agreed to at a special meeting of the Scottish League clubs last week.

The move gives a respite to the two clubs due for relegation at the end of last season. Next season Division A will consist of 18 clubs instead of 16.

This means the 16 who played last season together with the two promoted from Division B.

The new division B will consist of 19 clubs, the 14 remaining from last season plus the first five from Division C.

The new formation was approved by 25 votes to 12.

Motherwell and Stirling Albion are the two clubs which escape relegation, while the two promoted clubs from Division B are Airdrie and Dunfermline.

The five which gain promotion to the new Division B are Dumbarton, Stranraer, East Stirling, Montrose and Berwick Rangers.

First inter-city air mail in Canada was from Ottawa to London, Ont., on Nov. 25, 1927.

SHEPHERD'S GROVE, England (CP)—United States airmen are offering £6 a week to pin boys at the bowling alley in the U.S. air base near this Suffolk community. Average industrial wage in Britain is about £10.

Taking Scrap Costs Two $50

Theft of scrap brass from an HMC Dockyard beach cost two longshoremen $50 each in Esquimalt court yesterday.

John R. Berry, 27, 335 Niagara, and Robert J. Bickford, 26, 225 Ontario, pleaded guilty to theft.

RCMP Const. Keith Alexander said the men were in an outboard motorboat Sunday and helped temselves to the metal. He said they travelled to a jetty when hailed by a guard and offered full co-operation.

Both men said the scrap, valued at $15, was below the high tide mark and they did not think they were stealing.

Neither had a previous record.

Charles W. Cooper, 501 Macaulay, was fined $20 on a speeding conviction in the same court. Police said his car was paced at 50 miles an hour at 12.55 a.m. June 1 on Esquimalt road.

Alex Cossette, 1877 Granville, was fined $20 in city court for exceeding 30 miles an hour on Government street.

John D. McLaughlin, 1216 Fort, was fined $5 for traveling the wrong direction on a one-way street.

In Sidney court, H. Porier, of Cole Bay, was fined $10 and $5.50 costs for illegal possession of an intoxicant, and a further $25 for driving without a license.

Anton Dore of Sidney was fined $25 and $3.50 costs for exceeding the 50-mile-an-hour limit. Richard Muirhead, Victoria, was fined $15 and $3.50 costs for exceeding a school zone speed limit.

Young Victim Buried

A victim of leukemia for the past 15 months, Clarence Doobyn, 8½, who died Saturday, was buried yesterday at Royal Oak.

The oldest of three brothers and two sisters, Clarence had been given more than 100 transfusions in his fight for life.

Victorians last Christmas cheered the little boy by subscribing more than enough to grant his greatest wish, an electric train to operate when he was permitted to go home, to 3580 Cedar Hill road, from hospital.

Baess Places Second

Jon Baess, of Royal Victoria Yacht Club, placed second on over-all points in a series of four elimination races for the Mallory Cup on Lake Washington, Seattle, during the weekend. First place went to a Seattle team, which thus qualified for the finals at Detroit September 7.

Baess represented the British Columbia area of the Pacific International Yachting Association in the elimination series, competing against teams from Seattle Yacht Club, Corinthian Yacht Club and Royal Vancouver Yacht Club.

The eliminations were sailed in Dragon class yachts, but the finals will be in Luders 15s.

Crewing for Baess were his sister, Elizabeth, a recent arrival from Denmark, and K. S. Crabtree, Victoria.

Fishermen, Woodworkers To Vote On Proposed Two-Year Settlements

Special meetings are being arranged by fishermen and the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) to vote on proposed settlements of two-year contracts in their respective industries.

Results will be known tomorrow night in the salmon net fishing industry, affecting 6,000 coast fishermen, including those sailing in 500 boats out of Vancouver Island ports.

Fishermen called off a few-hours-old strike when the settlement was announced Saturday night.

The prices proposal effective for two years includes sockeye, 24 cents a pound, up two cents from 1954, coho 15 cents, pinks, 8¾ in 1955 and nine cents in 1956, summer chums 6½ cents a pound, fall chums nine cents in Johnston strait Fraser river areas and seven cents a pound elsewhere.

Also operative is a two-cent-a-case increase in the salmon welfare fund, to bring the operators' paid scheme to three cents.

Canners and the Vessel Owners' Association would each have one seat on the board of trustees. The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union and the Native Brotherhood previously administered the fund. The UFAWU will have five seats and the brotherhood with one representative.

The fund would provide year-round coverage rather than in the fishing season only, and death and shipwreck benefits would be increased.

IWA SETS MEETINGS

The woodworkers' proposal affecting about 24,000 coast IWA members, must yet be approved by the operators, will be discussed at special meetings of the eight locals affected.

Victoria local 1-118 will meet at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Johnson street hall to conduct a vote on the two-year contract proposal.

A five-cent an hour increase, retroactive to June 15, would be effective this year, and a further five-cent increase from June 15, 1956. Present basic pay is $1.49 an hour.

Employees on contract work also would get higher rates.

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser

Don't Brush Your Plates! Soak Them in Polident As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, banish Denture Breath. Just follow these easy rules:

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.

2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath".

3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident cleanser is recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soaps, plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.

Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

"Wouldn't you know it? The kind of guy who leaves his door unlocked wouldn't have 'Sanforized' pajamas!"

Too bad, boys. But just try next door. Most people have "SANFORIZED"*-labelled cottons around the house. They may leave their doors unlocked . . . but they take no chances with shrinkage.

Leaders To Learn About Recreation

Representatives from more than 200 recreation commissions established in B.C. communities will attend a leadership training school in Victoria July 18 to 29.

The commissions, established under the community programs branch of the provincial education department, are coordinating recreational activities in B.C.

Courses in weaving, copper tooling, ceramics, sports organization, social recreation, square dancing, water safety, film projection and film councils, track and field and community drama will be conducted at the Victoria normal school and Lansdowne junior high school.

Professor Harry F. Griffiths with the B.C. education department will give a series of lectures on recreational psychology. A workshop will be held daily on recreation commissions.

"Recreation has now become a basic human need," Education Minister Ray Williston said yesterday. "I recommend that municipal commissions . . . have competent recreation commissioners to plan better for this important area of daily living."

Swimmer Undecided On Date

Dorothy Hoyt, second attempt to swim from Victoria to Port Angeles has not been set by George Wade, commodore of the Victoria Yacht Club, who is planning to provide escorts.

Miss White set her last attempt in April. Adverse weather and tides caused her to end her attempt after 7 hours and 20 minutes. Miss White has been training and "it's just wonderful to get back in the water."

"I haven't set a date yet and I won't until I can check with navigators on the tides," she said.

As she did for her first attempt, Miss White came to Victoria the last week and has no sponsor.

During periods when she is not in training, the Toronto teen-ager will consult with navigators and arrange for a craft to accompany her in her attempt to "go as far as possible to Port Angeles."

Triumph Scores Triumph

Howard Phillips, driving a Triumph TR2, placed first in Sunday's "Little Alpine" rally at the Victoria Motor Sports Club.

Don Smith, in an Austin Healey, was second, and Ted Wood, Volkswagen, third.

Phillips' penalties added up to only three points for variations from predicted time over the 147-mile course. Smith was penalized six points and Wood 11.

The course arranged by Alec James, took the 12 competing cars from Parsons bridge to Shawnigan lake, once around the lake, then to Shearing speedway where each had to do two laps in exactly one minute, to Youbou back to Mill Bay, and to the finish at Parsons bridge. The run lasted from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

He's helping make aviation history!

Squadron Leader Joseph Riva, 35, is an RCAF Officer whose initiative and application has resulted in another important Canadian contribution to the advance of aviation operations.

A native of Canmore, Alberta, he joined the RCAF in 1941. After serving in the Middle East and the United Kingdom, he returned to Canada in 1945. Over the next five years—on numerous mercy flights and northern exercises—he noted that no simple method existed for 'pinpoint' dropping of paratroopers and para-borne supplies.

With official encouragement, he tackled the problem in 1950, and shortly developed a PARADROP method that produced on target landings every time. But another problem remained—to develop a PARADROP COMPUTER to speed up required calculations. After considerable research this problem was solved and perfected too. In 1953 the computer was ready—and it worked.

The Canadian (Riva) Method has been adopted both by the Royal Canadian Air Force and by the United States Air Force.

As a result of Observer Riva's thinking and perseverance, the pilot of a transport aircraft can now assume full responsibility for the accurate delivery of para-dropped supplies or troops—under any set of conditions. S/L Joseph Riva is helping make aviation history!

Council Backs Fluoridation But Public To Have Final Say

Residents of Esquimalt will give their opinions on fluoridation of public drinking water in a referendum this year—probably at the municipal election in December.

Council last night endorsed fluoridation and recommended it to the public.

But both decisions were far from unanimous and were made by votes of four to three.

At one point council considered asking its solicitors if it has the legal right to present fluoridation in a referendum.

STAND MODIFIED

Coun. G. K. Sammon, who is also chairman of the Victoria-Esquimalt Local Board of Health, suggested two weeks ago that there be no referendum because implementation of fluoridation was [illegible], but he modified his stand last night.

He presented a resolution that council, guided by professional organizations, would endorse and recommend fluoridation, the decision to be put before the public in a referendum this year.

Harry Langley, 1020 Foul Bay road, who had asked council for permission to speak, said fluoride was "one of the vilest poisons known" and stated that the Greater Victoria Water Board had no power to allow fluoridation.

He said it was not established that many doctors and dentists favored fluoride.

MUNICIPAL POWER

Coun. Sammon agreed that the board did not have power to implement the scheme ago. [illegible] municipality was able to do so.

Coun. J. E. Carey said council should not [illegible] as being for or against fluoridation until the people gave their decision.

"If they endorse it, I'm for it," he said. "If they don't, I'm dead against it."

Reeve A. C. Wurtele was [illegible] that no referendum should be held unless the council thinks it knows a good way to do it. He questioned whether the board would be able to get the facts [illegible] said the reeve.

The woman replied: "Do you mean I must pay my taxes and not have a voice in how they will be spent?"

Councillor Carey resumed the discussion with the statement that he has not "come across anyone" who agrees with fluoridation.

CONTRADICTIONS

A suggestion to table the resolution for consideration later was rejected by Councillor Sammon who said information has been received from both sides.

Councillor Carey demurred, saying he had literature which "contradicts everything put forward by Councillor Sammon."

Resolution to endorse fluoridation and recommend it to the public was approved four to three with Reeve Wurtele and Councillors Sammon, George Argyle and Arthur Fields in favor and Councillors Carey, James Bennett and Walter Hoder opposed.

Alderman Confident City To Give $3,100

Grant to Art Gallery Legal, Mayor Says, But Favors Matching Other Municipalities

"Council is confident it is empowered to make a grant to the Victoria Art Gallery, Mayor Claude L. Harris said yesterday. But he favors making a grant of the same per capita size as adjoining municipalities.

At its last meeting, June 10, city council set aside $3,100 as a possible grant to the gallery, pending a report on its legality.

Doubts arose last week "on the dark" at the time without first asking about the "secondary trust" under which the former Arts Centre" was established.

Yesterday he said however that he was satisfied the trust was a properly registered society owning its land and that the Municipal Act gave council power to make a grant.

"It is now only a policy question," he said. "It depends on what money is required and what the other municipalities do. We will match what the other municipalities do. If they all give on a per capita basis, certainly I'm in favor of it."

Ald. W. F. Fitzfield, who proposed the $3,100 grant, said he was confident that this sum would be approved when council meets Thursday.

Council earmarked $3,100 and all that remained to be decided was the legality of the grant, he said.

Oak Bay made a $250 grant to the Arts Centre this year and Saanich a token grant of $50.

Solarium is a Home From Home to Jackie

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Freckle-faced Jackie Gould doesn't mind the fact that he's going back to the Queen Alexandra Solarium, in fact, he's happy to be back.

The 10-year-old boy from Houston, near Smithers, is the oldest patient at the crippled children's centre in Mill Bay and as such wants the public to know about the happy life of the youngsters there.

He also wants them to know that while a new Solarium at Gordon Head may not make the patients happier, it will provide better treatment, "so I would like it if everybody helps out their drive right now," he said.

Jackie became a victim of polio in 1952 and spent two years at the Solarium before he was well enough to go home. He has come back for an operation to fuse his spine at Royal Jubilee Hospital today.

When he was [illegible] spent at least [illegible] months at the Solarium, in which he was [illegible] at the Queen Alexandra Solarium, in fact, he's happy to be back.

"I don't mind," he says. "I like it here and this just an ordinary operation."

Big for his age, Jackie gets around the Solarium in a mechanized wheelchair and keeps busy by managing the air craft darts and key chains and by going to school.

"I'm in grade four and I haven't missed any school yet," he says.

What will he be when he grows up? "I'm going to become a doctor," he says. "So he wants me to fuse his spine at Royal Jubilee Hospital today after which he will become a lawyer instead."

Gyro Club Donates $2,500 to Solarium

A $2,500 donation to the Queen Alexandra Solarium building fund was approved yesterday by Victoria's Gyro Club.

The club unanimously approved the recommendation of its directors that it donate more than $1,500 already in its Winning Well funds and pledge the remainder of the $2,500.

Club officials expressed hope that other city service clubs would regard the donation as a challenge to do as well.

HOLE-IN-ONE

Wilfred T. Fraser, a Gyro Club member is chairman of the clubs and organizations committee of the Solarium building fund drive.

Victorians will add to the club's other charitable funds when they patronize the annual Gyro Hole-in-One Carnival from July 13 to 16 on the Victoria High school grounds.

Watch for 1955-E—The Comet With a Big Tail

Elusive "little" 1955-e may have its shiny face and its long tail on film by this morning.

That was the hope of Dominion Astrophysical Observatory officials last night as they prepared for a 2 a.m. vigil. If they didn't get 1955-e a picture during the night, they will try again early tomorrow to train a lens on the new comet, discovered nine days ago by a Czech astronomer named Mrkos.

The Little Saanich Mountain astronomers know where 1955-e is and have been trying every night to get a picture of it. But clouds have come between them and their quarry. Sunday night they set their telescope on 1955-e's position and "got a glimpse of it," but not long enough to take a picture.

Dr. R. M. Petrie, director of the observatory, said the comet's present name means that it is the fifth comet discovered in 1955. It will be given a permanent name later.

Astronomers believe the comet is of the type that will stay in sight "for some time yet," he said.

The observatory is interested in hearing from persons who sight the comet, he added, and he described its location at 1:30 a.m. low in the north-northeast, about five degrees west of Capella, the brightest star in the northeastern sky.

The comet has a tail three to four times as long as the diameter of the moon.

Beauty and You

By MARION MATTHEWS

At a recent fashion group luncheon in New York city for members in the cosmetic field the topic for discussion was the state of beauty in suburban living. Casual is the way of life in so far as clothes and looks are concerned for suburbia and [illegible] fear of mass that it can be overdone. Just how do you fit into the picture?

Do you, as it is reported in many instances let the casual approach to make-up influence you to such an extent that you go about with none most of the time? Do you let the easy to care for coiffure beguile you into thinking you can get along with no hairdo at all? Do you limit your facial cleansing to just soap and water? Have you gotten into the habit of such casual clothes and make-up that others think you are off to the big city when you take time to look your very best?

The industry recognizes you are a new type daily to look after and knows it too must keep up to your demands. Exactly just how still requires research. To date fine lines and other beauty aids side by side with the groceries is just one of their efforts to meet your needs. The home permanent that grows more popular and is [illegible] than giving yourself a shampoo is another aid to the busy suburban housewife.

As time goes on you can expect continued efforts to enhance your beauty, self importance and glamour. For your own good in the meantime don't be too casual about your beauty!

"We are meeting tonight to ask support to a most worthy cause," he pleaded. "Legends tell of children who are unable to care for themselves. Dickens asked the highest charity. But in a modern state, such as we have today, efforts directed toward people can be directed by the government to get to a good end. We should not have to do it as an individual, direct contribution through taxation." Eat Your Troubles Away

Royal Family Of Vitamins Is B-Complex

Those who are undernourished and don't realize it will find a guide to better health and greater vigor in "Eat Your Troubles Away," latest work by Lelord Kordel, researcher and lecturer on nutrition, appearing regularly in The Daily Colonist

BY LELORD KORDEL

The vitamin-B complex is a vital, ever-increasing group of food elements that might be called the "royal family of vitamins." Its members include vitamins perhaps better known to you by the names of thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, pyridoxine, biotin, choline, pantothenic acid and folic acid. Then there are also para-aminobenzoic acid and inositol, as well as the new B12 which has proved so helpful for victims of pernicious anemia.

[illegible] have encountered previously in this book, when I was feeling starved, [illegible] to combat chronic fatigue and acting on the brain cells to increase brain power. Choline also stimulates appetite. Niacin promotes normal muscular activity, aids the body to release energy and keeps the proper peristalsis of the stomach and intestines and helps maintain a normal red blood cell count.

In older persons, lack of adequate thiamine in the diet seems to affect the heart muscle, often resulting in abnormal dilation of the heart. Supplemental amounts of thiamine may be needed to protect the heart muscle from undue strain.

[illegible] Sometimes the lower lip flakes.

The skin may also pack at the angles of the nose and [illegible] eyes. Because [illegible] such hair and eyes any [illegible] immediately toward a [illegible] deficiency.

[illegible] and wrinkled and the seat of the entire body contour showing quick tendencies toward [illegible] of other forms of skin disorders.

The hair may become dull and fall out too readily. Unsightly fingernails — split and fissured—often disappear after the system receives enough riboflavin.

[illegible] were afforded [illegible] after being given large doses of niacin.

'Tonic' Member of Group

Pantothenic acid, or vitamin B5, is called the "tonic" member of the B complex. [illegible] It is believed to influence fertility and to prevent certain nervous and degenerative diseases. This vitamin also is an aid to normal pigmentation.

Pantothenic acid is best known to the public perhaps as the vitamin that "restores color to grey hair."

Although laboratory experiments with animals did achieve this remarkable result, and many persons who did their own experimenting with this vitamin were delighted with the way the grey hairs in their heads seemed gradually to be replaced with natural-colored ones, still sufficient evidence is lacking to say definitely that either pantothenic acid or para-aminobenzoic acid will affect the aging of the hair.

Biotin is a rare and [illegible] substance. As found in human saliva and [illegible] body is [illegible] and septic. Biotin seems to be the key factor essential to the growth of every living thing from molds to mankind.

Choline and inositol are fat dissolving agents. They are wonderful aids in promoting normal distribution of food fat throughout the body in the proper places, thereby preventing the stockpiling of fat in undesirable spots, possibly in hardening arteries and in a fatty-logged liver.

Vitamin B12 and folic acid are important blood building members of the B complex, of which even greater things may yet be discovered in the research laboratories.

Truly, vitamin B complex is the right-around where good vitamin nutrition revolves.

Schools Urged as Civil Defence Centres

Use of school basements as evacuation centres is the most feasible way of putting civil defence on a workable basis, Greater Victoria" a former civil defence official said yesterday.

T. A. Cresswell urged that the mayor and civil defence coordinator interview the Greater Victoria school board to discuss use of the basements.

Mr. Cresswell said one school should be the evacuation centre for each of 10 districts in Victoria, and for each of a similar number of districts in the outside municipalities.

Each district would have a warden, who would notify residents of the area where the evacuation centre is located. A special job would be to arrange evacuation of elderly [illegible] crippled and young persons to the centre.

Mr. Cresswell added that each district should have a first aid station, with a volunteer staff. Civil defence instructors should be provided to train a staff to maintain the centre.

TV Talk

By ROY PARRETT

As predicted in this column some weeks ago there will be few changes in government policy towards radio and television by broadcasting in Canada.

This was made clear when the House of Commons broadcasting committee tabled its report last week.

This body commended the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for just about everything and failed to come up with any new worthwhile suggestions.

It turned a deaf ear to pleas of the Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters and for a Canadian Chamber of Commerce for a separate body to regulate broadcasting in Canada. This function is now carried out by the CBC.

And it upheld the CBC's one service TV policy, which allows only one station to be licensed in any one area.

It ignored the suggestion that a royal commission be set up to study all television broadcasting in Canada.

Alcan Flooding

Tweedsmuir Park Reduced in Size

Reduction in the size of British Columbia's vast Tweedsmuir park from 3,456,00 acres to 2,299,500 acres has been approved by the provincial government.

A large part of the area cut out of the park has been flooded as a result of Aluminum Company of Canada's Kenney Dam at Kemano. Other parts were never suitable for park land, according to some provincial officials.

The new boundaries include some sections of Crown land on the east fringe which have been added.

About 100,000 acres of forest land was flooded by the Alcan hydro project which backed up Eutsuk and Tahtsa lakes and inundated miles of tree-covered shore line. A storm of protests arose over the flooding, particularly when Alcan's agreement with the former provincial government did not require clearing of the land to be flooded.

The 1,100,000 acres removed from Tweedsmuir park, which includes the flooded portion and lakes which existed before, will remain Crown land.

Alcan pays the government 10 cents per acre per year for the areas which were flooded.

'Germany In Terror'

Ottawa Demands Report From Infantry Brigade

DUESSELDORF, Germany (CP)—The Duesseldorf newspaper Der Mittag says Canadian soldiers are terrorizing German civilians in the Paderborn area "as though this were 1945" and the area "lay east of the Elbe (Russian territory)."

Der Mittag says there has scarcely been a day in the last few weeks in which Canadian soldiers at Sennelager training camp had not "come into public attention in an annoying way."

It says "girls are attacked and raped, civilians are beaten up, inns are flattened . . .

"Even if it be granted that in a group of soldiers of 5,000 men who lack suitable outlets for their spirit of enterprise there can easily be a portion of criminality and rowdyism, it does seem that these sons from the sea of the great Aurora mistake their mission on the old continent."

SIGNS OF FRIENDSHIP

This is unfortunate, the paper says, for Germans had so far had a solid portion of good will for the Canadians. Whole generations of students were under the firm impression that all "better types" from overseas came preferably from the area of the St. Lawrence.

But it says one in whom this belief was thoroughly destroyed was the innkeeper "at whose head four Canadian guests threw a full bottle of spirits during the beer hall fight in Augustdorf last Thursday night."

"When he looks at the bump on his temple today he may fairly have his own ideas about Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's hurry about the Paris treaties."

Der Mittag adds that a few weeks ago this would have been "occupation damage," but "today such things, too, count among the hopeful signs of an even-tightening friendship" binding West Germany to the free world.

At Ottawa an army spokesman said headquarters have asked the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade in Germany for information on the reported brawl.

He said some German newspapers exaggerate relatively minor incidents, such as barroom fights, accidents involving army vehicles and the like. Other papers were more objective. It was not known where the newspaper Der Mittag stood.

BIELEFELD, Germany (CP)—Details of brawling and individual attacks on civilians by Canadian troops in the Sennelager area near here are to be sent to the Canadian Parliament, it was announced Monday night.

The regional women's headquarters of the Social Democratic party has built up a dossier which will be forwarded through the party federal executive. The Social Democrats are the main opposition party.

V. M. MOLOTOV

What's Molotov's Mood?

World Diplomats Scan Poker Face

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The spotlights of an expectant world have swung onto the poker face of one of the four men who sat down behind closely guarded doors to produce a working formula for the meeting of the chiefs of state July 17 in Geneva.

He is Vyacheslav Mikhailovich Molotov, Russia's top diplomat, political negotiator, and foreign minister serving his third boss, Nikita Khrushchev, having survived many a political storm.

Others at the table were United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay.

The discussion of the proposed meeting of chiefs of state, a mere four weeks away, took place last night in a private dining room in a San Francisco hotel. After entering the hotel separately, the four returned to the steps and posed for pictures.

Pre-meeting announcements said that no communique would be issued on last night's meeting.

Molotov is the only one of the four foreign ministers to return to the same historic Nob Hill which 10 years ago was an international beehive of peace-builders.

There was a faint smile on his face when he walked briskly into the Fairmont Hotel Sunday night to visit Eelco Van Kleffens, president of the UN General Assembly.

After attending the formal dinner given by Eduardo Zuleta-Angel of Colombia, Molotov withdrew to his own suburban headquarters to evaluate his first impressions.

The experienced eyes of international diplomats failed to penetrate beneath the cordiality displayed by the Russian and his companions, and most observers have preferred to wait and see.

Even If Grant Not Ready

Start Planning Civic Centre Victoria Urged

Planning for a civic centre or auditorium should start immediately even if the capital city grant is not available for the purpose this year, architect Roderick D. Clack said last night.

He told members of the Victoria Chapter of the Society of Residential Appraisers that it would take at least a year of careful planning before construction could start.

Meanwhile, city business man Elmer McEwen last night extended an invitation to all MLAs, the mayor, aldermen and councillors of Greater Victoria to attend a special meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at McEwen's Restaurant to discuss the civic auditorium project.

Mr. Clack urged that now is the time "we must start making concrete plans."

A civic auditorium and a convention centre are "not quite the same," he explained. "A convention centre is a centre that has a large hall for meetings and assemblies, meeting rooms, committee rooms, catering facilities, dining rooms and rooms for social functions," he said.

"A civic auditorium is primarily for the staging of some sort of performance. It needs stage facilities for religious meetings, singers, plays and dramatic presentations."

A civic centre combines all of these things and would mean a number of buildings, with more or less the same objective, which would be a point of civic pride, he said.

"As architects, we are very conscious of the fact Victoria is not a very beautiful city. That may come as a blow to our pride," he said. "We have magnificent surroundings, terrific views, but Douglas street

Newfoundland Policy

'Fly Union Jack —No Other Flag'

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)—Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland told the Atlantic Association of Broadcasters Monday night Newfoundland has not entered confederation to fly any flag but the Union Jack.

Newfoundlanders had not joined Canada to become second-class citizens. "Rather than come to that we'll show the other Maritime Provinces how to get out of confederation."

Premier Smallwood was introduced by Premier Hugh Fleming of New Brunswick and thanked by Premier Henry Hicks of Nova Scotia. All smiled when the Newfoundland leader said that as far as confederation is concerned Canada is still on trial.

Newfoundland hadn't yet made up its mind and no matter how many national flags developed in Ottawa "it will be a long day indeed before we abandon the Union Jack."

Junta Planned

Revolt Curbs Peron Might

BUENOS AIRES (CP)—Life appeared to be returning to normal in the Argentine capital Monday—under strict control of the armed forces. But there were reports that President Juan Peron's power was being curbed in the wake of Thursday's revolt.

Argentine refugees in Montevideo, Uruguay, said they had learned from Buenos Aires sources by telephone that the army is preparing to establish a three-man junta, including Peron, to rule Argentina. The two other members would be Maj.-Gen. Franklin Lucero, the army minister, and Rear-Admiral Alberto Teisaire, the vice-president.

The Argentine refugees said negotiations among the prospective members of the junta are in progress on how to settle the Peron government's controversy with the Roman Catholic church.

Peron was excommunicated by the Vatican last Thursday shortly before the navy-air force revolt broke out with bombing attacks on government house here.

For the first time since Eva Peron, the president's late wife, died July 26, 1952, radio stations abstained Monday from broadcasting the official "memorial" news bulletin which went on the air regularly at 8.25 p.m.—"The hour Eva Peron entered immortality."

Confused Salmon Caught in Drydock

Seven confused spring salmon, including a 53-pound whopper, wondered who pulled the plug and left them high and dry in the basin of Esquimalt drydock yesterday.

The fish, who usually know better than to remain in the basin at low tide, were caught on the wrong side of the gates after the merchant ship Vassa was manoeuvred into the dock and the water pumped out.

Vassa's entry was at the lowest tide ever attempted to bring a ship into the drydock, and was considered "on the risky side" by dock officials.

It marked the first time in four years that fish of any size were left behind by the sea. Smaller fish trapped in the dock can clog outlets—like a school of anchovies did in 1951.

Frank George, a dockyard worker, caught the 53-pounder with a barbed spear when the receding water reached wading level.

The big "catch" brought a number of curious spectators to the side of the dock. But their hopes of taking home a big one, too, were dashed when they were warned that public fishing in the drydock is illegal.

Smallest of seven captured salmon was 23 pounds.

Friends, Rivals Mark UN Birthday

Dulles Shakes with Molotov as Crowd Cheers

By JAMES D. WHITE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Old friends — and old rivals — gathered under the glare of the spotlights Monday with 10 years of history on their hands.

As the 10th anniversary session of the United Nations opened here, the great stage of the gilt-and-red plush opera house suddenly thronged with half a hundred veterans of the organizing session in the same spot as 10 years ago.

State Secretary Dulles arrived early, with Harold Stassen, President Eisenhower's special secretary for peace charged with working on disarmament.

They cordially greeted Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippines chief delegate, and slapped him on the back.

Romulo slapped them right back, and then turned to greet Paul Henri Spaak of Belgium, and Charles Malik of Lebanon.

The stage was already crowded with veterans of the first session when the Russians arrived with the largest contingent of all.

HANDSHAKE COAXED

Molotov mounted the stage from the orchestra and chatted with delegates from the smaller countries, shaking hands with each.

Gradually he worked his way towards Dulles, finally reaching him just behind the speakers' rostrum.

They chatted amiably enough, but Dulles kept his hands behind him, his back toward the audience. Photographer and newsreel men moved toward them. For two minutes they waited as the two statesmen talked. Finally somebody yelled "shake hands." Dulles unlocked his hands behind his back and pumped Molotov's. The audience broke into applause.

As President Eisenhower spoke Molotov sat impassively without translation headphones. Russian newspaper men later said he had had the speech translated beforehand.

He joined heartily in the applause when the president ended.

Province 'Giving Thought' to Action

No Church, No Hospital, No Homes, No Pub—No Help

VITA, Man. (CP) — This town had no where to turn Monday.

No church in which to pray for guidance. No hospital to soothe the pain. No beer parlor to drown the sorrow. Few homes to shelter the homeless.

Vita lay dazed, the nightmare of Sunday's tornado still numbing the senses.

Officialdom had yet to act. From Premier D. L. Campbell came word the provincial government was "giving thought" to a program of action.

The Red Cross said it was standing by for orders. So did civil defence. Three Salvation Army officers moved into this southeastern Manitoba town to offer what help they could.

Repair crews worked round the clock threading a line of communication to this Ukrainian settlement, 50 miles southeast of Winnipeg.

Volunteers and RCMP poked among the ruins seeking possible victims. It was known at least 30 persons were injured, some severly, during the two minutes of hell. Six or more homes were either burned to the ground or smashed. The hospital, school, drug store, bakery, lumber yard, restaurant and funeral parlor were shattered.

The general store was a smouldering pile of embers. There was no electricity.

Those of the 400 residents still in the town rummaged through the debris for any belongings they might salvage.

And Monday, emotions that were bottled up in terror began to break through the surface.

Mrs. Mary Probizanske wept as she looked at what was left of her home: only the chimney stood above the pile of debris.

She and her son were trapped in the house when the tornado struck.

"I heard a rumble, glass flew. I just grabbed my little boy and ran to the basement," she said. John Bodnarchuk cowered behind a refrigerator in his restaurant as jagged pieces of glass and timbers flew in the windows. Later he found on the floor a felt boot blown in from Jack Pidlubney's general store, three doors away.

Pidlubney's store was just a heap of glowing embers in the foundation.

Premier Campbell said the province "naturally" was ready to give any first aid or any assistance that it may offer. A cabinet decision, however, was difficult as seven of the 10 ministers were out of town on government business or on by-election campaigns.

Winnipeg meteorologists blamed a band of thunderstorms for the tornado, a rarity in Canada. A marked cold front moved into warm, stagnant air and the tornado formed on the division line of the warm and cool air.

Vita residents said it was the second tornado to hit the community in five years. In 1950 a funnel-shaped cloud bore down on the town's outskirts, ripping the roof off a lumber yard office.

Start Planning Civic Centre Victoria Urged

Planning for a civic centre or auditorium should start immediately even if the capital city grant is not available for the purpose this year, architect Roderick D. Clack said last night.

He told members of the Victoria Chapter of the Society of Residential Appraisers that it would take at least a year of careful planning before construction could start.

Meanwhile, city business man Elmer McEwen last night extended an invitation to all MLAs, the mayor, aldermen and councillors of Greater Victoria to attend a special meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at McEwen's Restaurant to discuss the civic auditorium project.

Mr. Clack urged that now is the time "we must start making concrete plans."

A civic auditorium and a convention centre are "not quite the same," he explained. "A convention centre is a centre that has a large hall for meetings and assemblies, meeting rooms, committee rooms, catering facilities, dining rooms and rooms for social functions," he said.

"A civic auditorium is primarily for the staging of some sort of performance. It needs stage facilities for religious meetings, singers, plays and dramatic presentations."

A civic centre combines all of these things and would mean a number of buildings, with more or less the same objective, which would be a point of civic pride, he said.

"As architects, we are very conscious of the fact Victoria is not a very beautiful city. That may come as a blow to our pride," he said. "We have magnificent surroundings, terrific views, but Douglas street

'Behaviour Like 1945'

Our Troops 'Terrorizing' Germany, Paper Claims

Story Alleges Rape, Beatings, Damages

DUESSELDORF, Germany (CP)—The Duesseldorf newspaper Der Mittag says Canadian soldiers are terrorizing German civilians in the Paderborn area "as though this were 1945" and the area "lay east of the Elbe (Russian territory)."

Der Mittag says there has scarcely been a day in the last few weeks in which Canadian soldiers at Sennelager training camp had not "come into public attention in an annoying way."

It says "girls are attacked and raped, civilians are beaten up, inns are flattened . . .

"Even if it be granted that in a group of soldiers of 5,000 men who lack suitable outlets for their spirit of enterprise there can easily be a portion of criminality and rowdyism, it does seem that these sons from the sea of the great Iturons mistake their mission on the old continent."

SIGNS OF FRIENDSHIP

This is unfortunate, the paper says, for Germans had so far had a solid portion of good will for the Canadians. Whole generations of students were under the firm impression that all "better types" from overseas came preferably from the area of the St. Lawrence.

But it says one in whom this belief was thoroughly destroyed was the innkeeper "at whose head our Canadian guests threw a full bottle of spirits during the beer hall fight in Augustdorf last Thursday night."

"When he looks at the bump on his temple today he may fairly have his own ideas about Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's hurry about the Paris treaties."

Der Mittag adds that a few weeks ago this would have been "occupation damage," but "today such things, too, count among the hopeful signs of an even-tightening friendship" binding West Germany to the free world.

At Ottawa an army spokesman said headquarters have asked the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade in Germany for information on the reported brawl.

He said some German newspapers exaggerate relatively minor incidents, such as barroom fights, accidents involving army vehicles and the like. Other papers were more objective. It was not known where the newspaper Der Mittag stood.

BIELEFELD, Germany (CP)—Details of brawling and individual attacks on civilians by Canadian troops in the Sennelager area near here are to be sent to the Canadian Parliament, it was announced Monday night.

The regional women's headquarters of the Social Democratic party has built up a dossier which will be forwarded through the party federal executive. The Social Democrats are the main opposition party.

What's Molotov's Mood

World Diplomats Scan Poker Face

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The spotlights of an expectant world have swung onto the poker face of one of the four men about to sit down behind closely guarded doors to produce a working formula for the meeting of the chiefs of state July 17 in Geneva.

He is Vyacheslav Mikhailovich Molotov, Russia's top diplomat, political negotiator, and foreign minister serving his third boss, Nikita Khrushchev, having survived many a political storm.

Others at the table will be United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay.

The discussion of the proposed meeting of chiefs of state, a mere four weeks away, took place last night in a private dining room in a San Francisco hotel. After entering the hotel separately, the four returned to the steps and posed for pictures.

Pre-meeting announcements said that no communique would be issued on last night's meeting.

Molotov is the only one of the four foreign ministers to return to the same historic Nob Hill which 10 years ago was an international beehive of peace-builders.

There was a faint smile on his face when he walked briskly into the Fairmont Hotel Sunday night to visit Eelco Van Kleffens, president of the UN General Assembly.

After attending the formal dinner given by Eduardo Zuleta-Angel of Colombia, Molotov withdrew to his own suburban headquarters to evaluate his first impressions.

The experienced eyes of international diplomats failed to penetrate beneath the cordiality displayed by the Russian and his companions, and most observers have preferred to wait and see.

Science Hopeful

Last Days Sighted For Chronic Pain

TORONTO (CP)—Medical men meeting here said Monday research has changed their concept of the nature of pain and of sex determination.

At a panel discussion at the joint British and Canadian medical associations convention, Prof. Graham Weddell of Oxford, England, said Science may eventually end chronic pain.

Dr. Frank Turnbull of Vancouver said the new medical approach to pain resulted from research by Prof. Weddell.

He said neurologists now believe pain is caused by a stimulant acting on the nerve, rather than, as previously held, by the nerve itself.

This means pain orginates in the body through a diversity of causes and not for a "specific or rigid" reason, Prof. Weddell added. He said he believes "some simple chemical" may eventually be discovered to relieve chronic pain but not the disease, by removing the environmental causes.

Dr. L. R. Broster of London's Charing Cross Hospital said Canada leads in the field of research into intersexuality.

A technique devised by Dr. Murray Barr of the University of Western Ontario shows the preponderant sex of an individual through the sex chromosomes present in his or her tissue cells.

Skin samples are used to determine sex in young individuals with mixed male and female glands. Subsequent conditioning had given the patients a happy, healthy life, although they were unable to bear children.

Research on intersexuality is continuing in Britain and Canada, Mr. Broster said. Ultimately, he added, it may be possible to test expectant mothers to determine whether they are carrying normal children.

Prof. J. W. Crofton of Edinburgh said that with antibiotics, combined ith surgery, nobody need die from pulmonary tuberculosis.

Omission of her name from the brief news broadcast was noticed in practically every home of the country. The omission strengthened the widespread impression that new minds are at work on the Argentine political scene.

Argentine newspapers have not yet carried the news of Peron's excommunication.

Socred Wins In Camrose

'Fly Union Jack —No Other Flag'

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)—Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland told the Atlantic Association of Broadcasters Monday night Newfoundland has not entered confederation to fly any flag but the Union Jack.

Newfoundlanders had not joined Canada to become second-class citizens. "Rather than come to that we'll show the other Maritime Provinces how to get out of confederation."

Premier Smallwood was introduced by Premier Hugh Fleming of New Brunswick and thanked by Premier Henry Hicks of Nova Scotia. All smiled when the Newfoundland leader said that as far as confederation is concerned Canada is still on trial.

Newfoundland hadn't yet made up its mind and no matter how many national flags developed in Ottawa "it will be a long day indeed before we abandon the Union Jack."
